(Code) (Expenses $ 21,742,134 including grants of $) (Revenue $ 188,135)

Assisted Colorado's ranchers and farmers in protecting their agricultural lands and encourage continuing agricultural production by providing education, acceptance, and monitoring of conservation easements. The organization also consults with governmental agencies and others in the area of land conservation. CCALT had another record-setting year for land conservation in 2012, protecting more than 12,822 acres in 20 total transactions. More important than the numbers is the positive impact our work is having in protecting rural communities, our ranching heritage and the spectacular working landscapes for which Colorado is known. The Colorado Cattlemen's Agrncultural Land Trust takes prde in our 18-year record of fiscal Continued at Schedule Oresponsibility and organizational growth. In 2012, CCALT accepted conservation easements valued over $21 million. As a non-profit organization, it is critical to be effective stewards of charitable donations and public conservation funding. CCALT prides itself on our fiscal conservatism and our return on investment. In 2012, CCALT protected conservation easements on an operating budget of $640,000. To look at it another way, CCALT is able to protect land at the average cost of $25 an acre. CCALT has protected over 401,845 acres from 1995 to 2012. We are proud of this accomplishment and are thankful for the generous support of our landowners and donors.

Identifier	Return Reference	Explanation
Explanation of Changes to Conservation Easements	Part II, Line 3	CCALT amended one conservation easement in 2012. The conservation easement was amended to correct an error that had been made in the list of water rights tied to the property. The amendment did not modify any of the terms or conditions of the conservation easement. CCALT did not release, extinguish, or terminate any conservation easements in 2012. CCALT completed 20 conservation easement transactions in 2012. 11 of these were completed by restating an existing conservation easement deed, without significantly modifying its terms, and adding additional acreage to the conservation easement.
Explanation of Easements Enforcement Policies	Part II, Line 5	The Colorado Cattlemen's Agricultural Land Trust (CCALT) is currently operating under a conservation easement stewardship, monitoring, and enforcement policy originally approved by the board in 1999 and renewed in 2010. Our policies ensure CCALT will have the financial means necessary to continue our perpetual obligations to steward the conservation easements we have and will accept going forward. CCALT's policies also ensure that CCALT will have the necessary documentation to enforce each conservation easement going forward. This includes accurate baseline files as well as proper documentations of stewardship issues which have occurred in the past. Landowner requests for interpretation or changes to the deed of easement must come in writing. So CCALT has records of the landowner's intentions if a reserved right is exercised, this too must be in writing and in compliance with the notice provisions set forth in each deed of conservation easement. If a property changes hands, it is CCALT's policy to update our records and meet with the new landowner to ensure they fully understand the restrictions set forth on their property. This is to try to prevent future stewardship issues from arising. CCALT has a policy of monitoring every easement on an annual basis. This usually includes a visit to the property in person but may also include aerial monitoring, or remote monitoring. CCALT's conflict of interest policy applies to the stewardship policy and no landowner may monitor their own property. Monitors of CCALT conservation easements will not make decisions in the field as to whether or not a situation is or is not a violation of the terms and conditions of the conservation easement. Instead, monitors will collect information on the item of concern. The upper level staff will evaluate the infraction. If it is determined that the infraction is a violation, the board and legal counsel is notified and a course of action is set to correct the violation. It is the stated policy of the CCALT to enforce all of the terms of our conservation easements. With that being stated, it is also the intention of the organization to avoid litigation, if possible, in the enforcement of any violation of a conservation easement. However, legal action may be required and any legal action, including the filing of injunctions, on the part of CCALT requires the adoption of a resolution of the board of directors.
Description of How Organization Reports Conservation Easements	Part II, Line 9	The organization receives gifts of conservation easements, which represent numerous restrictions over the use and development of land not owned by the organization. The donated value of conservation easements is recorded, based on the appraised value when available, as revenue when received and an expense is recorded for an equal amount whether the conservation easement is held by the organization or transferred to an eligible entity. Donated conservation easements are recorded at estimated value when an appraisal is not available. The organization's policy for conservation easements is that the benefits flow through to the general public. The organization monitors activities on the land and enforces restrictions contained in both donated and purchased conservation easements. The organization holds 269 conservation easements covering approximately 401,845 acres in 40 counties throughout Colorado, and parts of Wyoming and New Mexico. Conservation easements are interests in land which possess conservation.
Description of Intended Use of Endowment Funds	Part V, Line 4	There are two endowment funds held by the Trust. First, there is the Stewardship Endowment Fund, which provides funding for the ongoing and perpetual stewardship responsibilities accepted by the Trust for the conservation easements it holds. Donations to and investment income earned on the Stewardship Endowment Fund are recorded as permanently restricted net assets until appropriated by the Board of Directors for expenditure, at which time they are released from restriction. Second, the Operating Endowment Fund consists of a donor-established endowment in which funds cannot be expended until the assets meet a specific amount. When the required amount is reached, the Board of Directors will establish a percentage of the assets to transfer to the general operating fund to cover a portion of the cost of ongoing land trust operations. Schedule D, Part V, Line 1. Endowment net assets were restated effective January 1, 2012, to correct the beginning balance for funds erroneously reported as endowment funds in previous years.
Description of Uncertain Tax Positions Under FIN 48	Part X, Line 2	Management is required to evaluate tax positions taken by the Trust, and to recognize a tax liability if the Trust has taken an uncertain position that probably would not be sustained upon examination by taxing authorities. The Trust believes that it has appropriate support for any tax positions taken and that none would require recognition of a liability or disclosure in the financial statements. The Trust is subject to routine audits by taxing jurisdictions, however, there are currently no audits for any tax periods in progress. Management believes the Trust is no longer subject to income tax examinations for years prior to December 31, 2009.
