Establishing Individual Exemption

Separating From a Group Exemption

When a subordinate wishes to establish its own individual exemption after having been included in a group exemption or has been told by its parent to seek its own exemption, it must file a Form 1023 or Form 1024 and pay the appropriate user fee. These cases are not reserved inventory and can be worked by all specialists using the following procedures:

- Obtain BMFOLO research to verify that the applicant is already covered under a GEN
- Determine the effective date of the individual exemption:
 - If the central organization notified the applicant that they will no longer be covered under the group exemption, the effective date of individual exemption is the date specified in the notification from the central organization.
 - If the central organization does not specify an effective date, the effective date is the date the central organization notified the subordinate.
 - If the applicant chooses to withdraw from coverage under a group exemption, it must notify the central organization in writing and specify the effective date of its withdrawal. This is the effective date of their individual exemption.
 - If an effective date is not specified in the notification, the effective date is the date the subordinate notified the central organization of its intention to withdraw (i.e., the date of the letter).
- Process application following normal case processing procedures

Note: An organization that is described in IRC section 501(c)(3) may be classified as a public charity if its financial history under the group ruling demonstrates public support.
