1. The first step in the process of the investigation is to identify the problem. This involves gathering information about the situation and determining what needs to be solved. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to develop a plan. This involves deciding on the best way to solve the problem and setting out the steps that need to be taken. The third step is to implement the plan. This involves carrying out the steps that have been decided on and monitoring progress. Finally, the fourth step is to evaluate the results. This involves checking to see if the problem has been solved and if the solution is satisfactory. If not, the process may need to be repeated.
