The objective of the foundation is to promote the rich and very old classical performing arts of South India to audiences in the United States, provide a premium performance platform for talented youngsters in the US, and present educational events by knowledgeable professional South Indian performing artists. In order to meet these objectives, in 2013, Pallavita organized concert tour for 1 vocalist, with percussion and string accompanists. Performances were organized in 10 venues in the US and over 10,000 people attended these events. Over 1000 students have benefited from these educational events. Pallavita has organized Festivals in Fremont, South Indian classical performances by over 250 youngsters from around the US and educational events by visiting Indian professional artists. Over 2000 people attended these events. All these events were open to the public.

None of the members of the board or the executive staff were paid any remuneration.

The work for the events was done by volunteers. Event management was by volunteers as well.

Professional fees is almost fully payments for artists who are giving concerts.

A big portion of the Other Expenses is travel expenses for artists' travel cost for travel to performance venues, and their boarding and lodging.
