What is the GCC?

By John Lash

The Georgia Conflict Center is committed to peacemaking. We work to reduce harm of all sorts in our community, including physical, emotional and verbal violence. We accomplish this work in two ways. First, we work to empower individuals in developing their communication and conflict management skills. This includes classes and workshops aimed at better understanding how we currently handle conflicts, how we can expand our choices of responding to conflict, and honing the specific skills that will let us engage in the inevitably difficult situations we face without resorting to violence. GCC does this work with kids, teachers, prisoners, and community members around the city and state.

UPCOMING PEACEMAKER CLASS

Dates: Tuesdays from
Jan. 4 to Feb. 11
Time: 6:00p to 8:00p
Cost: free

Please join us in January for our Peacemaker class. Over six weeks we will explore styles of conflict, common reactions to conflict, tools and skills to give us more options when faced with conflict, and we'll have a lot of fun along the way. Would you enjoy having the skills to talk to anyone about anything, no matter how difficult? With Peacemaker training you'll learn both how to express yourself and how to hear others in a way that leads to greater connection, mutuality without giving in or giving up, and a better chance that others will work with you instead of against you.

Mission

The Georgia Conflict Center is a not for profit organization that aims to reduce the levels of physical, emotional, and verbal violence in our community.

We are dedicated to empowering individuals in violence prevention and conflict management skills.

CONFLICT IS INEVITABLE. VIOLENCE IS NOT.

What is the GCC? (Continued)

Even with the best of skills we sometimes need help with conflict, and GCC works both to provide that help and to train others in taking the "third side" as interested community members. This is the second way that we work to increase the potential for peace. Through restorative processes we create a safe space and give all sides of a conflict a chance to speak and be heard. This work can happen anywhere that we find ourselves in community. It is used in schools, courts, shelters, intentional communities, neighborhoods and many other places.

"This work can happen anywhere that we find ourselves in community."

In all of our work we strive to cultivate curiosity about communication and a positive orientation to conflict. This lets us look at conflict as both feedback from the systems we are in and also as an opportunity to improve our relationships in a way that doesn't compromise our own needs. Many of us are either avoidant or aggressive, but with a little training and support we can develop strategies that utilize compromise and collaboration. None of us has to be stuck with the ways we currently meet conflict. At GCC our motto is, "Conflict is Inevitable, Violence is Not."
