The great blue heron that had settled down on the branch immediately began to preen its feathers and lay on a new layer of powder down I could even see a few of the white flakes drift into the air I went a short distance to my home and returned with a camera It postured and posed like a model at the end of a cat walk, it was my avian muse As it finally rested, burying its bill and most of its head into a pile of fluffy breast feathers, our coastal ambassador of elegance and grace was bathed in the warm light of a new day
