Part IV, Line 1b Why is organization an agent, trustee, custodian or other intermediary for contrib	The Credit Union sells first mortgage loans to others with servicing retained. The custodial escrow accounts related to these mortgage loans are not included in the Credit Union's financial statements.
Part IV, Line 2b Explanation of escrow account liability	The Credit Union services first mortgage loans held in its own portfolio. The custodial escrow accounts related to these mortgage loans are included in the Credit Union's financial statements, and are reported as an escrow liability.
Part X FIN48 Footnote	ASC 740, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes, prescribes a minimum recognition threshold and measurement methodology that a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return is required to meet before being recognized in the financial statements. It also provides guidance for de-recognition, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure and transition. The Credit Union and its wholly-owned subsidiary are under regular audit by the tax authorities. The Credit Union believes that it has appropriate support for the positions taken on its tax returns and that its annual tax provision includes amounts sufficient to pay any assessments. Further, management believes that the Credit Union's tax exempt status would be upheld in an examination. Nonetheless, the amounts ultimately paid, if any, upon resolution of the issues raised by the taxing authorities may differ materially from the amounts accrued for each year. The Credit Union and its subsidiary file income tax returns in the United States federal and Colorado state jurisdictions. The Credit Union and its subsidiary are no longer subject to income tax examinations for the Colorado state income taxes before 2010 or for the United States federal income taxes before 2010. The Credit Union classifies any interest on underpayments of income tax as "Interest Expense", and classifies penalties in connection with underpayments of tax as "Other Expense".

Return Reference	Explanation
Client Note 1	Client Note 1 - UBIT REPORTING In May 2009, a federal court jury in Wisconsin ruled in the Community First Credit Union case that credit life and disability insurance and GAP insurance coverage made available to member-borrowers by Community First Credit Union of Appleton, Wisconsin were "substantially related" to Community First's tax exempt purpose. The court granted a tax refund to Community First based on the jury's verdict, confirming that credit insurance and GAP were not subject to the unrelated business income tax (UBIT). The IRS did not appeal the case. In November 2009, in the Belco Credit Union case, the U.S. District Court in Colorado ruled that commissions received by Belco Credit Union of Greenwood Village, Colorado from the sale of financial products to Belco members, were not subject to UBIT. The court ruled that the sale of those financial products to Belco members was "substantially related" to Belco's tax-exempt purpose of promoting thrift among its members, and the resulting income was exempt from UBIT. In April 2010, the court in Colorado issued its second and final decision in the Belco Credit Union case, holding that (i) credit life and disability insurance was "substantially related" to Belco's tax-exempt purpose of promoting thrift among its members, and (ii) Belco income from AD&D insurance sold to members by an independent marketing company, where Belco was essentially limited to allowing use of its name and brand, providing member contact information, and reviewing and approving (but not creating) the marketing materials, represented passive "royalty" income exempt from UBIT. On October 19, 2010 the U.S. Department of Justice abandoned its plan to appeal the federal judge's favorable credit union rulings in the Belco case. The decisions in these court cases are now definitive statements of the law, are not subject to further review, and provide "substantial authority" that income from the sale of credit life and disability insurance, GAP coverage, financial products sold to credit union members, and AD&D insurance sold via direct mail is exempt from UBIT. As such, for 2013, Public Service Credit Union is not reporting these income sources as subject to UBIT, but is filing a 2013 Form 990-T to report income from other insurance products and non-member ATM fees.
