The Friends of the Bloomfield Township Public Library is a local group of residents working to support the programs and projects of their local public library.

Books and media are donated throughout the year by local residents and are sold at minimal prices through various "used book sales" throughout the year at the library.

Memberships are collected for early entry to used book sales and to support the friends.

The friends have the use of all library services and facilities without charge.

All officers, board members and sale volunteers are unpaid. There are no paid employees.

Requests for funds are received from the library departments and administrators throughout the year to support special projects, programs and events.
