During 2010, the Elgin Foundation began public school initiatives focusing on reading improvement and dental care for certain elementary grades composed of approximately 7,500 students in 35 high poverty schools located in Southeastern Kentucky and Southwestern Virginia. Going forward, the reading goal is for at least 90 percent of students to read at grade level upon completion of the third grade. Grade level is measured using testing programs developed independently by the Northwest Evaluation Association located in Portland Oregon. The reading initiative requires that schools implement the following steps for Kindergarten through the Third Grade: use specified curriculum, accept outside instructional coaching for teachers and principals, increase classroom reading time by a prescribed amount, and test each student's base-line achievement position at the beginning of the school year and then test in December and again in the spring. Initial test results to-date indicate that reading performance using this new initiative far exceeds that otherwise expected, based on historical data. Elgin retained a nationally known independent evaluation firm to verify the data outcomes.

Elgin also sponsors community-wide reading programs that use various methods to encourage all parents to read to their children at least twenty minutes a day from birth to kindergarten.

Elgin's dental initiative was adopted by the schools in conjunction with their adoption of the reading program. Dental screening is provided for all children, and follow-up treatment is provided at dental offices for problems discovered during the initial screening process. Dental liaisons at the schools devote particular attention to those parents who might otherwise feel that good dental health is unimportant for their children.
