Part I	Summary
---------------	----------------

Activities & Governance	1 Briefly describe the organization's mission or most significant activities The first and only women's visual art college in the nation, Moore occupies a unique niche in higher education. Today, Moore honors its rich legacy of advancing the role of women in the visual arts by providing a quality, career-focused BFA education. Moore is a leader in the local, regional and national arts community through its galleries, youth and public programs, and educational partnerships. Moore continues to build on its innovative role in arts education with new coeducational graduate programs, public lectures, and networking opportunities that attract young and emerging artists from across the region. Each year, Moore's national Visionary Woman Award honors outstanding women who have had a powerful impact on art and design. The event benefits the Visionary Woman Scholarship. During 2008-09, Moore marked its 160th Anniversary with a year-long celebration of special events, a new Visionary Voices Lecture Series, a history of the school, and an oral history of key Moore women.

Briefly describe the organization’s mission

Moore is dedicated to excellence in art and design. Founded in 1848, Moore is the first and only visual arts college for women in the US. With its undergraduate BFA degree for women and coeducational graduate programs, Moore cultivates creativity, promotes scholarship and prepares students for careers in the arts by emphasizing critical thinking, problem solving, risk-taking, and strong communication skills. Moore is dedicated to producing graduates who distinguish themselves as leaders. As a cultural leader, Moore promotes the arts in the broader community. The Galleries at Moore present work of significant regional, national and international artists to the community through distinctive exhibitions and educational programs. The Continuing Education programs provide opportunities for men and women to learn new skills for personal and professional growth. Moore's acclaimed Young Artists Workshop, founded in 1922, enriches the lives of children and youth through creative arts education.

2

Did the organization undertake any significant program services during the year which were not listed on the prior Form 990 or 990-EZ?

Yes

No

If "Yes," describe these new services on Schedule O

3

Did the organization cease conducting, or make significant changes in how it conducts, any program services?

Yes

No

If "Yes," describe these changes on Schedule O

4

Describe the organization’s program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. Section 501(c)(3) and 501(c)(4) organizations are required to report the amount of grants and allocations to others, the total expenses, and revenue, if any, for each program service reported.

(Code) (Expenses $ 15,062,402 including grants of $ 5,912,202) (Revenue $ 14,577,622)

Higher Education. Moore enrolls approximately 500 students in the Bachelor of Fine Arts program with an 8:1 student/faculty ratio. Moore cultivates each student's creative talents and provides the technical and professional skills essential to building a successful career in the visual arts. Students learn from award-winning, professionally active faculty who bring real-world knowledge and expertise into the classroom and encourage excellence, creative exploration and self-expression to prepare students for leadership in their chosen field. Moore offers majors in Art Education, Art History, Curatorial Studies, Fashion Design, Fine Arts, Graphic Design, Fashion Design, Illustration, Interior Design and Photography & Digital Arts. Moore also offers students an array of minors that complement their course of study and allow them to advance their interests in support of their artistic and professional goals. Moore requires internships in all its undergraduate majors with the exception of Art Education, which has a student teaching requirement. Beginning in 2010, the College provides all students with an Internship Fellowship. Moore is committed to providing undergraduate women with distinctive leadership opportunities.

Higher Education. Graduate Programs. MFA in Studio Arts, MFA in Interior Design and MA in Art Education with an Emphasis on Special Populations. After months of planning, Moore announced in summer 2008 the creation of three unique new graduate programs designed to prepare motivated men and women with the skills, knowledge and resources to become professional artists, designers and teachers. All three programs are low-residency, recognize the critical value of professional exposure and require a field practicum, internship or international studio residency. Programs emphasize critical thinking, innovation and synthesis of theory and practice. Self-directed research and rigorous inquiry are key components. Candidates work closely with professionally active faculty artists, educators and designers, as well as work independently with professionals in the field. Each program hosts an annual symposium featuring guest speakers of national and international significance, focusing on contemporary issues. All three programs feature summer intensive, evening and weekend year-round scheduling that are well suited for working adults seeking to acquire new skills and perspectives in their current studio, design or teaching practices. Programs began in May 2009.

(Code) (Expenses $ 687,768 including grants of $ 120,409) (Revenue $ 1,020,440)

Continuing Education and Youth Programs. Moore offers certificate programs as well as single credit and non-credit courses for men and women who want to learn new skills, advance their careers or simply learn for their own personal enrichment and fulfillment. Offered during the evening and weekend hours on Moore's campus, continuing education courses are available in digital media, digital photography, fashion, interior decorating and the fine arts. Courses combine a flexible and dynamic approach to learning while remaining grounded in the time-honored strengths of Moore's BFA programs and award-winning faculty, who are committed to sharing their expertise and bringing real world experience into the classroom. Approximately 350 adults enroll in Moore's continuing education courses each year. Moore's Teachers Summer Institute is designed to enhance the culture of teaching and to empower learning in and through visual art. A professionally directed program of studio-based workshops offers educators the opportunity to expand studio skills, deepen personal direction, and discover new applications in educational practice. Moore offers a full range of educational programs for boys and girls grades 1-12, from its historic Young Artists Workshop to its innovative Summer Art & Design Institute for High School Women. Established in 1922, the Young Artists Workshop (YAW) enables young people to have direct involvement with art making, encourages self-directed learning, and enables authentic learning experiences. The YAW program serves approximately 1,100 boys and girls each year. YAW classes are ongoing and are scheduled for ten Saturdays in the fall and ten Saturdays in the spring. In summer, Moore offers single day and one-week programs for students in grades 8-12, Monday through Friday and on Saturdays. A variety of classes are offered, introducing students to the joy of creative exploration and developing their artistic skills through a range of media and techniques. The Summer Art & Design Institute for High School Women (SADI) is a four-week pre-college residential program open to young women who have just completed their sophomore, junior, or senior year of high school. The Institute allows dedicated students who are passionate about their artwork to spend four weeks developing their skills as artists and designers. Upon successful completion of the program, students will earn 3-0 college credits. Students choose a studio concentration emphasizing Fine Arts, Fashion Design, or Digital Animation. Each week of the program includes three days immersed in the studio concentration, as well as two days in the intensive portfolio development program: basic drawing, life drawing and two-dimensional design. All of these subjects are designed to prepare students for the college admissions process. Students are taught and guided by exceptional faculty who are professionals in their fields and committed to sharing their knowledge of art and design. Additionally, students benefit from required activities such as artists' studio tours, museum and gallery visits and other exciting cultural events that expose them to the larger arts community in Philadelphia.

Schedule D, Part III, Line 1	The College does not record its collections in the financial statements. The College owns numerous pieces of fine art, mainly from prominent alumnae and faculty, along with some historical treasurers, primarily from the Joseph Moore family, that combined constitute the Moore College Archives. The College has made a commitment to preserve the archives and uses them as a resource for students at the College.
Schedule D, Part III, Line 4	The College does not record its collections in the financial statements. The College owns numerous pieces of fine art, mainly from prominent alumnae and faculty, along with some historical treasurers, primarily from the Joseph Moore family, that combined constitute the Moore College Archives. The College has made a commitment to preserve the archives and uses them as a resource for students at the College.
Schedule D, Part V, Line 4	Endowment Principal is used for College's general expenses and financial aid.
Schedule D, Part X, Line 2	The College is a non-profit educational institution which has been determined by the Internal Revenue Service to be exempt from federal income taxes under section 501c3 of the IRC. The college adopted FIN 48 as of July 1, 2008. Management has evaluated substantive tax positions taken by the College as of June 30, 2014. A tax position is recognized as a benefit only if it is "more-likely-than-not" that the tax position would be sustained in a tax examination, with a tax examination being presumed to occur. The amount recognized is the largest amount of tax benefit that has a likelihood of being realized on examination of more than 50 percent. For tax positions not meeting the "more-likely-than-not" test, no tax benefit is recorded. Under the "more-likely-than-not" threshold guidelines, the Management believes no significant uncertain tax positions exist, either individually or in the aggregate, that would give rise to non-recognition of an existing tax benefit. As of June 30, 2014, the College had no material unrecognized tax benefits or liabilities.
