The CFO and CEO return the Form 990 to the business office to resolve questions and make changes. The Form 990 goes back to the CFO and CEO to ensure questions and changes have been made. Form 990, Part VI, Line 12c Explanation of Monitoring and Enforcement of Conflicts	The policy is included in both the Employee Handbook and the Code of Conduct, which is issued to and discussed with each employee and board member. An annual letter affirming the policy and asking for written declarations of any potential conflicts is sent to all board members and approximately 20% of employees (all managers, business office staff, purchasing department staff, human resources staff, etc.). Responses are reviewed by the Corporate Compliance Officer, reported to the board, and acted upon as needed. Also, the corporation is aware of the business affiliations of officers and directors and ensures that each is aware of the affiliations. Whenever discussions occur in which a conflict exists, the individual recuses him/herself from the proceedings so the other members can discuss the matter freely. Each year at its Corporate Governance Committee meeting and Annual Board meeting a report is made to the board of directors describing the business affiliations and any business transactions that occurred during the year between the corporation and the external businesses in which the directors or officers are involved.

A number of nationally recognized salary surveys are utilized as part of this process and the consultant's written report is received by the Compensation Committee and the full board. Annually, the Compensation Committee reviews the compensation for each member of this group utilizing the benchmark data and any adjustments in compensation are recommended from the Compensation Committee to the full board for consideration and approval.
