Return Reference	Explanation
Part III, Line 1a	As is permitted under U S generally accepted accounting principles the Museum's permanent collection acquired through purchase or donation is not recognized as an asset in the accompanying financial statements. Accordingly revenue is not recognized from donations of artwork and purchases of artwork are recorded as a reduction in net assets in the year in which the item was acquired.
Part III, Line 4	The Danforth provides visitors with entertaining and educational experiences in the visual arts, educating the public through its collection of American art and changing exhibits of contemporary artists.
Part X, Line 2	Generally accepted accounting principles as practiced in the United States require an entity to assess the probability that a tax position has a "more likely than not" (MLTN) sustainability after review by tax authorities. If a tax position is deemed not to meet this threshold, any unrecognized tax benefits and costs are estimated and recognized. Interest and penalties, if any, related to assessments by tax authorities will be classified as a component of interest expense and other expense, respectively, in the statement of activities. A tax position may be considered as taken any time a taxpayer chooses amongst alternatives that affect the amount of their tax obligations and include for example tax exempt status, status as a pass-through entity (S Corporations, etc ), decisions made in the process of conforming with tax laws, decisions not to file in certain jurisdictions, allocation of income between jurisdictions and the characterization of income expenses. Tax returns are routinely open for review by the tax authorities for three years from their due date. In certain circumstances the statute of limitations may remain open indefinitely. The Museum has been notified by the Internal Revenue Service that it meets the qualifications to be classified as a tax exempt entity under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Since the continuance of this status is based upon continuing qualification, the Museum has identified this as a tax position. However, it has determined that this tax position meets MLTN sustainability and does not result in an uncertainty requiring recognition.

Part XII, Line 2d - Other Adjustments	Special event expenses 30,254
