 The CS NYC project is indirectly funded by the New York City Adult & Children's Services (child welfare) agency and is part of a large system reform effort to implement linked evidence-based interventions that were developed and tested over the past two decades. This project provides training and support to implement three preventive evidence based practices (Keeping Foster and Kin Parent Supported and Trained, Parenting through Change and Youth Skills Coaching) simultaneously. Using these interventions, the CSNYC will change the routine practice of child welfare caseworkers such that they will implement evidence-based interventions with the children and families they serve. The CS NYC contracts are with the 5 participating agencies to actually implement KEEP, PTC and Youth Skills Coaching in their agencies.

Phase 2 of the project includes the KEEP and PTC programs as external contracts instead of subcontracts, and adds the R3 program (Reinforcing effort, Reinforcing roles and relationships and Reinforcing a small step that can be taken in the near term to contribute to a better outcome), theoretically based principles from evidence-based parenting interventions

 The ACF FIND project is a collaboration with Dr. Sarah Watamura at the University of Denver. Dr. Watamura is the Principal Investigator on a 5-year research grant from the Administration for Children and Families - A Microsocial Video-Coaching Intervention for Toxically Stressed EHS Families. This project focuses on some of the highest risk children enrolled in Early Head Start in the metro Denver area. These children are living in toxic stress conditions, putting the child at increasing risk for poor physical and psychological health. The project aims to test the Filming Interactions to Nurture Development (FIND) intervention with this population. FIND is a video coaching program for parents and other caregivers. FIND employs video of caregivers' natural interactions with their child to show them ways that they are supporting their child's healthy development and is a simple and practical approach that emphasizes the caregivers' strengths and capabilities. The five FIND elements are Sharing the Child's Focus of Attention, Supporting and Encouraging, Naming, Back & Forth Interaction and Child Led Endings and Beginnings.

4c (Code:) (Expenses $ 61,300 including grants of $ 0) (Revenue $ 0)
 The Casey Family Programs Project is a grant to accomplish two aims in collaboration with researchers at the Seattle office of the funding agency Casey Family Programs. The first aim is to conduct analyses using the data sets from the National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW) to develop empirical models to predict recurrence of child abuse and neglect safety issues for children ages birth to five years of age. The subjects are children and their caregivers/parents investigated for child abuse and neglect in the United States and enrolled in the NSCAW (Cohort II) who were not removed from their biological home by the time of the baseline data point in the 36 month longitudinal cohort after investigation. The empirical models are to predict subsequent re-reports of child abuse and neglect and/or subsequent placement in foster care within the approximately 31 months after the baseline data point. The second aim is to provide technical assistance to Casey researchers so they can initiate and accomplish subsequent analyses of the NSCAW data bases without requiring external expertise. The project has focused on production of two briefs for the Casey Family Programs to disseminate to child welfare stake holders in the United States and two papers for submission to peer-reviewed academic research journals.

Part IV Supplemental Information. Provide the information required in Part I, line 2, Part III, column (b), and any other additional information.

Grant/Contract Funds issued by ODI in amounts over $5,000 are generally in the form of a subcontract for services on a specific contract and are monitored on several levels. These subcontractors are necessary for ODI to complete the projects being funded through it's contracts. Grant Subcontractors are required to submit a budget, scope of work and other documentation necessary to submit the initial grant request authored by ODI. Once the grant is funded by an agency a subcontract is written outlining the budget, scope of work as well as any compliance requirements and legalities involved. Subcontractors are then required to submit monthly or quarterly invoices that include amounts spent by budget category and a signature certifying funds are being spent as intended. Invoices are reviewed by both administrative staff and grant staff. In addition, each grant has a PI and Project Coordinator who monitor and work with key personnel from each subcontractor. Due to the nature of our work, if they aren't doing their job, we can't do ours. Our work is very collaborative with our subcontractors. Any reporting requirements requested by the funder is in turn requested from the subcontractor.

Part VI, Section A, Line 11a & 11b - 990 Review Process

Once completed, the 990 will be reviewed by the Board of Directors. There are two options for the review process. Option 1 is for the Board of Directors to review the 990 form during their board meeting. Option 2 is for each board member to review the 990 individually outside of a board meeting setting. The option used is determined by the amount of time between the completion of the 990 and the due date. Either way, the board members have access to the Executive Director and other board members to air questions or concerns.

Part VI, Section B, Line 15a & 15b - Process for determining compensation

The organization does not compensate Officers or Directors for those duties. Scientist's salaries are based on the US Dept of Health and Human Services Salary Cap Summary using a complex point system. Points are earned through obtaining grant funding, publishing, etc. All other employee salaries are based on a Grade Level and Salary Schedule system which is based upon education, experience, and job skills required. The salary schedule was and continues to be compared to like organizations to our area, some of whom have done extensive third party marketing comparisons, in order to remain competitive in our field. Because we work closely with Oregon Social Learning Center and most of our employees are "shared" employees, we have adopted their Grade Level criteria, Salary Schedules and adjustments, Performance Appraisal Systems and Points systems which have been presented and approved by their Board of Directors.
