PART III Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

Program 1: Field Courses in Tropical Biology and Primatology

We conducted three field courses within this first financial year on tropical biology and primatology that were held at the Los Amigos Biological Field Station in southeastern Peru, which is our main field site Course 1 was held in December and lasted ~2 weeks with a student body of 5 and two instructors In May 2014, a second course was held that was 3 weeks long, and 11 students attended it The final course was held in July 2014, lasting 3 weeks again, and 5 students attended it For all three courses, two instructors were present During the first course, two instructors donated their services, taking no salary for their teaching but having their expenses (flight and lodging) covered For the second course, three instructors participated, two of which had complete expenses covered (flight and stay) but took no pay, and the third instructor took no pay but $200 of his stay was covered In the final course in July, two instructors (one local and one international) participated. The international instructor took no pay, but the local instructor was compensated at the standard rate of $27.5 per day for her time. Both instructors' lodging was covered at the site.

Program II: Research Assistantship Program

In this program, we trained 22 students in research methods by providing them with research assistantships that lasted anywhere from 4 to 10 weeks.

In total, we provided training for 906 person-days in a variety of methods including radio telemetry, GPS navigation, animal tracking, capture-and-handling and behavioral research. Four full-time researchers participated in all of the training, and all donated their services to this effort. Lodging was refunded for two researchers doing the bulk of the training, and the other two paid for lodging using personal funds/grants.

Program III: Scholarship Program for Field Courses

In this program, we offered a total of two scholarships to Peruvian students, one for the December course and one for the course in July. In each case, no money was actually granted to them but instead, their course fees were waived and we took on the expense of providing them with lodging at the field station for the duration of the course for free. These students were selected on the basis of applications solicited via our website, in which they wrote an essay as part of the application and were interviewed over the phone. Essays were evaluated by the Research committee.
