Part III

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

Check if Schedule O contains a response or note to any line in this Part III

1	Briefly describe the organization's mission
Promote better relations and understanding between the United States and the nations of Asia and the Pacific through cooperative study, training, and research
2	Did the organization undertake any significant program services during the year which were not listed on the prior Form 990 or 990-EZ? ☐ Yes ☒ No
If "Yes," describe these new services on Schedule O
3	Did the organization cease conducting, or make significant changes in how it conducts, any program services? ☐ Yes ☒ No
If "Yes," describe these changes on Schedule O
4	Describe the organization's program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. Section 501(c)(3) and 501(c)(4) organizations are required to report the amount of grants and allocations to others, the total expenses, and revenue, if any, for each program service reported.
4a	(Code)	(Expenses $	7,266,011	including grants of $	2,906,915)	(Revenue $ 3,850,056)
Since 1960, the East-West Center (Center) has been promoting better relations and understanding among the people and nations of the United States, Asia, and the Pacific through cooperative study, research, and dialogue. The Center serves as a resource for information and analysis on critical issues of common concern, bringing people together to exchange views, build expertise, and develop policy options. As a national, public diplomacy institution, the Center works in partnership with more than 1,059 organizations throughout the United States (U.S.) and in the region. The collaborative research, education, seminars and outreach, and other programs bring together Americans and counterparts from Asia and the Pacific to work in an atmosphere of academic freedom on issues of mutual importance. The Center's exchange and dialogue programs involve multi-country, region-wide activities involving everyone as full participants. In his speech at the Center, U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry delivered a policy speech in which he outlined what he termed the United States "ambitious agenda" of long-term engagement in Asia and the Pacific and the support for the Center's mission. "We know that America's security and prosperity are closely and increasingly linked to the Asia Pacific," Kerry said, adding that "President Obama and I strongly support your (East-West Center) mission of bringing people together to think creatively about the future of our role in the region." This past year, 4,088 participants from 79 countries and territories took part in Center activities throughout the region. While more information on the Center and its programs may be found at our website (www.EastWestCenter.org), the following is a highlight of the program activities during the year. EDUCATION PROGRAM The Center is at the forefront of educating people of the Asia Pacific region to meet the evolving demands of global change. The Program focuses on community building at the campus level as a stepping-stone to community building at the regional level. The participant's experience is one of grassroots relationship building, cultural exchange, shared experiences, and communal preparation for future leadership roles throughout the region. The Program offers educational opportunities for future leaders in the Asia Pacific region and the U.S. in an era of increased social, economic and technological interdependence. Graduate degree scholarships and certificate programs prepare students and professionals to address the challenges and complexities of the world's most dynamic region. Undergraduate degree scholarships build and strengthen the base of future leaders in the South Pacific. The program also provided professional development programs for educators to strengthen the capacity of individuals and institutions to cultivate in their students an appreciation and understanding of the histories, cultures, and contemporary issues of the Asia Pacific. The program accomplishments include continued training of future leaders in the Southeast Asia Youth Leadership Program, Asia Pacific Leadership Program (APLP), and college and K-12 educators through the AsiaPacificEd Program and the Asian Studies Development Program (ASDP). Other programs focused on the Pacific Islands Women in Leadership, Study of the U.S. Institutes (SUSI) for Student Leaders on Global Environmental Issues, and the Bruner-U.S. English Language Enrichment Program for ASEAN aimed at raising the level of English language skills in the region. In FY 2014, 442 students from 53 countries and territories participated in the Center's undergraduate and graduate training and scholarship program that is unlike individual scholarship programs, since these students are instilled with a common learning experience centered on U.S.-Asia Pacific issues and community service.
4b	(Code)	(Expenses $	6,970,791	including grants of $	630,760)	(Revenue $ 3,016,031)
RESEARCH PROGRAM The East-West Center's Research Program supports the Center's mission by engaging the research and policy communities in the Asia Pacific region on issues of shared concern. Researchers contribute expertise to broad and well-established networks of specialists and institutional partners, leading collaborative and interdisciplinary research on the evolving challenges of a dynamic region. They also provide insights and analysis to the Center's professional exchange, education, and public outreach programs, including its work with the media. The Pacific Regional Integrated Science and Assessment program supports integrated research across the social and physical sciences to expand the options of decision-makers, including the Pacific community leaders and members of the U.S. Congress to assist them in coping with climate change and its impact to the region. Center scholars conduct collaborative research on economic development and environmental change in South and Southeast Asia, including comparing the social and environmental impact of rapid urban growth in India and Pakistan and the impact of expanding rubber cultivation in the uplands of Cambodia, Laos, Burma, Thailand, Vietnam, and China Yunnan Province. Center researchers continue to conduct policy analysis, research, and training on the HIV epidemic in Asia. The Asian Epidemic Model, a computer modeling software enables Asian nations and countries around the world to understand the dynamics of the HIV epidemic and how best to allocate resources to maximize cost effective interventions. Researchers examine how the globalization of innovation is transforming relationships between the US and Asia to provide informed policy suggestions on how to minimize negative effects on economic growth and employment and how to share the benefits of science, technology, and other innovation through enhanced US-Asian cooperative agreements. The Asian International Justice Initiative (AIJI) is a collaborative project to promote capacity-building relating to international justice, judicial reform, and the human rights sector focusing on Southeast Asia. AIJI has continued monitoring and outreach efforts at the Khmer Rouge Tribunal in Cambodia with weekly television and radio broadcasts aired nationwide by locally-owned broadcasters and has recently established a presence in Dhaka, Bangladesh, to observe and report on criminal trial proceedings at the International Crimes Tribunal of Bangladesh. The Seventh annual Summer Institute for International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights, "Combating Violence Against Women and Children in Conflict Situations and Beyond" was held for professionals from the region to focus on human rights and business including the issues of corporate responsibility in the region. The Asia-Pacific Governance and Democracy Initiative is a multi-year project that undertakes policy relevant research, organizes capacity development and leadership workshops and senior level dialogues among scholars and policymakers, and publishes books and policy briefs on important governance and democracy topics in the region.
4c	(Code)	(Expenses $	5,282,411	including grants of $	1,306,643)	(Revenue $ 1,194,887)
SEMINARS AND OUTREACH PROGRAMS The Center has developed the most extensive program of trans-Pacific journalist and editor exchanges in the region, with exchanges for the Asia Pacific region as a whole (Jefferson Fellows), policy-oriented seminars and capacity-building seminars (the Senior Policy Seminar), and other seminars for health journalists, and bilateral programs with Japanese, Korean, and Chinese journalists. The Center also offers short-term policy seminars where senior and emerging leaders and business people from a variety of sectors focus on issues of regional concern. The program is developed around a thematic focus and provides participants with an opportunity to strengthen their understanding of Asia Pacific-U.S. developments and challenges, build a regional network and to become leaders with a more international perspective. Jefferson Fellows journalists traveled to Hawaii, Indonesia, and Myanmar included 15 journalists from ten countries examining the "Challenges of Democratic Transition" of two Asian countries, Indonesia and Myanmar that are in the midst of democratic transition. East-West Center in Washington supports the Center's mission through direct work with U.S. policymakers and opinion leaders in the nation's capital. It facilitates understanding of the U.S. policy process by its Asia Pacific participants through direct interaction with U.S. policymakers. It also continues the successful Asia Matters for America/America Matters for Asia initiative to organize and disseminate information, data, and analysis on the U.S.-Asia interactions.
	(Code)	(Expenses $	3,581,146	including grants of $	87,275)	(Revenue $ 851,154)
OTHER PROGRAMS Other Programs include the Pacific Islands Development Program (PIDP), the China-US Strategic Philanthropy Partnership (CUSP) and Auxiliary enterprise services. PIDP is an enduring partnership between the Center and twenty-two island governments. It is the only program of its kind based in the United States, bringing together heads of government from an area that spans one-third of the globe. PIDP's role as a regional organization includes the five major activity areas: Secretariat for the Pacific Islands Conference Leaders, Secretariat for the United States/Pacific Island Nations Joint Commercial Commission, Research & Dialogue, Education & Training, and Pacific Island News. CUSP is a growing initiative to promote communication, exchange and collaboration between the philanthropic sectors of China and the U.S. in order to ensure the best use of resources and maximize the benefits to society as a whole. The first East-West Philanthropist Summit was held in 2014 with 70 representatives of the philanthropic sector in China and the US gathering to share their vision on critical issues such as environment, education, health and social innovation. Auxiliary enterprises provide conference facilities and dormitory housing for students and conference participants that participate in the Center's programs.
