The Center is designed to address the specific needs of each participant identifying their physical and intellectual capabilities as well as their emotional needs. These participants consist of general population school-age children, as well as children with developmental disabilities and those deemed at risk. All of the programs are integrated, that is, the Center does not segregate or group the at-risk and developmental children aside from the other participants. It is the Centers goal to have all students work with each other, learn from each other and overcome their differences, just as adults do in the real world. Thus, all students learn the values of teamwork and accountability that breeds independence and success throughout life.
