Counseling - Low - income, uninsured families rarely have access to mental health services so the need is significant. HCMU works to address this need by providing a counseling program at four Catholic Salt Lake schools servicing 1,000 children and their families. The primary aim is to recognize and address the emotional needs of students who are affected by stress, bullying, violence or abuse, grief or other common youth issues. Regular classes are provided to help prevent bullying and promote healthy lifestyles for students.

Parish/Community Health - HCMU's parish health program provides quarterly basic health screenings and flu vaccine clinics at six of the poorest parishes in the state. The program also encompasses regular visits to 16 homebound seniors. Many of the clients who attend the screenings, which check blood pressure and blood sugar levels, have never seen a doctor and are unaware of their potential health concerns. In Utah, the Latino population faces unique challenges in accessing health care, including transportation, language and cultural barriers and socioeconomic difficulties. Our Parish Health program is determined to help poor and vulnerable individuals access the health care they need. In addition, we provide pastoral services and bereavement counseling for individuals who have faced severe trauma or lost family members.
