Part IV Supplemental Information. Provide the information required in Part I, line 2, Part III, column (b), and any other additional information.

A description indicating what the organization's procedures for monitoring the use of grant funds in the United States is outlined below. All distributions made support the organization's exempt purposes. Distributions are based on consideration of at least one of three actors reviewed by of the board of directors through its executive committee. First is whether or not the individual or organization meets one of the approved program categories. Secondly, two members of the executive committee having experience in counseling and social services dealing with homeless and indigent individuals, abuse victims, and accessing social organizations for help, e.g., food banks, Red Cross, Salvation Army, must recommend the distribution. The third factor involves individuals and families identified by school officials who have access to personal information and recommend selected individuals. Assistance sometimes involves the Angel Tree Ministry within a specific school which solicits individuals and organizations to provide food and clothing to needy students during the Christmas holiday season.

Another program involves students and families who are homeless; suffered a catastrophic loss; utilities have been turned off; or evidence exists that the children are reporting to school hungry. Many of these children are on the free and reduced cost of meals programs provided by the school and may be without food during periods when the school is not in session. Records kept of distributions include the names of recipients listed in the minutes of meetings, expense journals, canceled checks, and banking records such as direct pay for organizations.
