Youth stewards our two-acre urban farm, growing 10,000 pounds of vegetables. Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - First Accomplishment

During the second semester of 2014: Our group led field trips for visiting PreK - 12 classrooms, built gardens to support GRuB's Kitchen Garden Project, and had an integral role in preparing the farm for the coming growing season. They also put together a basic gardening skills video that allowed our youth to teach their gardening knowledge and to practice their public speaking skills. It is visible at:

www.youtube.com/watch?v=hiONIZOJQOY

Upon completion of the Academic Year program:

- * 82% of youth increased earned credits
- * 76% of youth decreased the amount of failed credits

- * 75% of youth increased their GPA
- * 89% of youth increased science GPA
- * 45% decreased number of absences - 1 student improved his attendance so drastically that he was taken off the BECCA bill
- * 2 students gained employment in teh community
- * 2 youth spoke at 3 different city council meetings on behalf of GRuB (Tumwater, Lacey, Olympia)
- * The class planned and organized a presentation at Capital High School all-staff meeting and an Open House for prospective new students
- * 3 youth assisted in the February Youth Institute and the whole class participated in a group activity to give Institute participants a glimpse into our programming

We recruited for incoming students at South Sound High School in the North Thurston Public School District. We received applications from 13 students and selected 5 for the summer. We recruited for incoming students at Capital High School in the Olympia School District. We received 27 applications and selected 15 for the summer entry GRuB School.

Summer 2014: The summer program was heavily involved in the delivery of the farm's goals through the Bouquet CSA, Cultivator CSA, on-site market stand at West Olympia Farmer's Market, food bank donations, and the youth farm stand. Harvesting twice a week, assisting in the farm's ever long list of duties, learning about and making compost piles, making bouquets, running the on-site market stand and leading volunteers gave them a myriad of opportunities to gain valuable job, social, and life skills. Weekly team-building games surfaced leaders amongst the group and built camaraderie, and communication skill trainings supplemented these well. The summer culminated in the youth taking on planning and leading the harvest without supervision: a beautiful way to demonstrate, and challenge them to use their skills.

We also took the group on field trips to the gardens and farms in the area who are aligned with various aspects of GRuB's mission. On these trips we were able to provide much needed labor on a bigger scale than normal and leave with both an immense amount of pride for our day's work and gratitude from our hosts. The additional bonus of these trips is that it exposes the youth to other "members" of the good food movement in the area.

The benefit of spending longer days here is the opportunity to cook and eat together. Twice a week a rotating group of 3 youth and a volunteer cook lead (guest chef) prepared a meal for the entire crew from scratch; incorporating most edibles from the farm throughout the summer.

Four 2nd year Peer Crew Leaders (PCL) were instrumental in the success of the 2014 summer crew and also represented GRuB at the annual Rooted in Community (RIC) conference that was held in Albuquerque, New Mexico this year. This gathering brought together 100+ youth, who represented youth food justice programs from throughout the country. One PCL was approached personally and asked to join RIC's advisory council as a youth representative.

1st Semester 2014 (2014-2015 school year: The crew continued to support the farm with an average of 3 out of their 5 school days/week helping to make bouquets, harvest for the markets and CSA, themselves, and helping the farm "go to sleep" for the season; deconstructing trellises, taking out crops, planting cover crop, and deconstructing irrigation lines. A small contingency planned for and shot a promotional video to support Capital High School in launching composting at lunch. This was aired in each classroom simultaneously; reaching the entire student body. Our curriculum focused on month-long themes such as "de-stressing foods", "parts of a plant", "eating according to the colors of a rainbow", "building our soil", "Who are the people in the food system?" and "eating on a budget".

We hosted a Parent and Family night in October, which in addition to the uniqueness of cooking for and eating with our students' families, was a chance to share what we've been working on as a class, and to bring our outside of GRuB families in to our internal GRuB family's space. We also planned a meal and cooked in celebration of National Food Day on October 24th.

Upon completion of the 1st Semester:

- * 17 students passed the 3 period block class with GRuB School, all receiving credits: .5 Biology through Horticulture, .5 Intro to Business (translated to U.S. History), and .5 Entrepreneurship
- * 2 students spoke on two different occasions to a South Puget Sound Community College class to raise awareness around community engagement
- * 2 students represented GRuB at a Capital High School Open House in September
- * Several students helped support our annual fall fundraising campaign, including participating in donor thank you calls throughout Thurston and Mason Counties (53 in Thurston, 22 in Mason), 6 of which were Earthbox container gardens and 69 of which were 4'x8' raised bed gardens. Additionally, we built 5 institutional gardens in partnership with local schools and non-profits serving low-income adults and families, and Community Gardens (at Oakville School & the Chehalis Tribal Community Center). Through our new Food Investment Garden (FIG) pilot project, launched in the spring of 2014, we built 5 gardens on a sliding fee scale for mixed income community members in the greater Olympia area. The Kitchen Garden Project greatly benefits low-income individuals and families who experience food insecurity and who would otherwise have limited access to fresh produce. The gardens offer a sustainable method for Thurston and Mason County's low-income residents to provide for themselves rather than solely relying on emergency food assistance programs. Before receiving their gardens, 75% of our gardeners received food stamps and 55% regularly visited the food bank. 54% of our gardeners reported, in the last year, that they or other adults in their household cut the size of their meals or skipped meals because there wasn't enough money for food. 82% couldn't afford to eat balanced meals. 87% reported that the food they bought just didn't last, and they didn't have money to get more. Each spring, our Kitchen Garden Project build season culminates in May with a celebratory community-building event, the "Day of the Bed." This year's Day of the Bed featured 6 build teams sponsored by various service clubs, local businesses and community organizations. Each build team participated in fundraising prior to the event and helped to raise awareness about our work, as well as nearly $5,000 for the Kitchen Garden Project. During the Day of the Bed, several volunteers came together to prepare breakfast snacks to fuel up our build teams so that they could be paired up with a trained lead builder and head out to greet and build gardens at the homes of our new KGP gardeners. After the build, the build teams, the gardeners and their families all reconvened back at GRuB to share a meal and celebrate the end of the Kitchen Garden Project's 21st successful build season.

This year, backyard KGP gardens served 75 households with 249 individuals in Thurston and Mason Counties. The breakdown is as follows:

- * 53 % households with children
- * 31 % single-parent households
- * 21 % Noncaucasian households
- * 25 % Households with seniors
- * 20 % of individuals served had special needs
- * 29 % of individuals had chronic health issues

After only having the garden for one growing season, gardener's lives and diets changed in the following ways:

- * 90% reported that they skipped fewer meals, that their food stretched farther and/or that they had a greater sense of food security as a result of their garden
 - * 87% reported that they regularly use vegetables that they grew in their cooking
 - * 67% reported that they now eat 2-3 cups of fresh vegetables per day
 - * 88% reported that they regularly spent time outside (a 35% increase from before receiving their KGP garden)
 - * 1% reported that they felt confident in their ability to grow food (only 43% had these skills from past experience before receiving a KGP garden)
 - * 54% indicated that they get regular physical activity by working in their garden
 - * 5% even reported a reduction in food bank visits due to bountiful produce
- In 2014, GRuB offered a Gardening & Healthy Eating Workshop Series featuring gardening, cooking & food preservation workshops. These workshops were offered free of charge to first and second year GRuB gardeners, and were open to the general public for a $5 fee. Our workshop series consisted of 21 workshops and served 95 individuals over the year, from March through November. Of the participants who returned a post-workshop survey, 65% reported an increase in their skills & knowledge of healthy behaviors. In the summer, we partnered with the Olympia Food Co-op to offer our summer series classes, and we built a raised bed garden at their new Garden Center next door. In the summer and fall, we expanded our workshop series from offering 3 courses in spring to 9+ workshops the following seasons. In November, we partnered with Slow Food Greater Olympia to offer a holiday cooking workshop entitled Demystifying Holiday Meals: 7 Cooking Workshop & Meal where we invited Guest Chef Kevin Gerlich, a 2014 KGP garden recipient, to lead participants in the kitchen.

In order to construct the 82 gardens during spring and fall (including the 75 KGP gardens, 5 institutional gardens & 2 community gardens), over 77 community volunteers contributed more than 700 hours of their time and labor. GRuB School students also helped build 6 gardens in the spring. All gardeners received free seeds, a dozen (or more) vegetable starts and Growing Guide. 27 gardeners chose to be matched up with a volunteer garden mentor who lives in their neighborhood for support, trouble-shooting and encouragement throughout the growing season. Thanks to generous donations from local businesses, this year we were also able to offer free seeds, tomato cages and other gardening resources at our farmhouse for anyone in our community with an interest in growing their own food.

In 2014 we piloted the Food Investment Garden (FIG) Project --

Over the past 21 years, we've had the great honor of building more than 2,700 backyard productive vegetable gardens to help community members with low incomes improve their quality of life and household food security. This year, we launched a pilot that would enable us to serve families with mixed incomes so that more people in our community could reap the benefits of fresh, locally-grown produce while also raising money to support the Kitchen Garden Project. Through this pilot, we sold 5 gardens on a sliding scale to interested community members and helped subsidize our free backyard gardens. Go FIG Grow!

After the successful pollination of the new Olympia High School Freedom Farmers Program in 2013, GRuB responded to other requests for help in starting GRuB-like programs. With the support of the Pacific Mountain Workforce Development Council, GRuB was able to provide intensive technical assistance and coaching to 3 organizations in 2014. GRuB engaged each site in program planning, staff skill-training, and sustainability planning.

Hospital donated land to be turned into a community garden. HOPE worked with 20+ youth in 2014 on their small garden next to Mason General Hospital. GRuB assisted HOPE with farm expansion design, sustainability planning, and program design work.

Grays Harbor Public Health & Social Services - Cultivating Roots Project
In the Spring of 2014, Grays Harbor County Public Health and Social Services partnered with the Housing Authority of Grays Harbor to build the first Cultivating Roots garden at the low-income housing development, Pacific Court. Twelve youth participated in the program this last summer, developing leadership skills and civic engagement. Youth grew healthy food for their own families as well as the tenants of Pacific Court.

Pacific County - LE@F (Learning Environments at Farms)

Efforts in Long Beach are in the fledgling stage as various interested partners try to establish a structure to support GRuB-like youth engagement. Conversations with the Long Beach School District, led by the Sea School Cooperative, look promising and we are hoping for the emergence of an alternative education model in the county that merges the best of GRuB's youth development philosophy with the unique agricultural and community assets of the peninsula. Our support of Pacific County included general technical assistance as well as a community workshop to introduce the GRuB model and build the leadership of attendees.
