Part IX-A Summary of Direct Charitable Activities Line 2	Part IX-A Summary of Direct Charitable Activities Line 2	THE GETTY RESEARCH INSTITUTE ("GRI") The Getty Research Institute (GRI) meets the Getty's research mission and its goal of advancing scholarship in the fields of art and art history. It exists to bring together the resources and activities required to advance understanding of the visual arts taken in their widest possible significance. The Getty Research Institute provides valuable support for scholars through a residential scholars program and extensive research collections, which include 27,400 linear feet of manuscripts, 1,370 linear feet of archives, 5,380 linear feet of photographs, 2,400 linear feet of architectural models, over 4,700 artists' books, two million study photographs, 70,991 rare books, 1,319,796 volumes of printed books, periodicals, auction catalogues, and 187,721 volumes in electronic format. Access to the collections and to scholarship conducted at the Research Institute is made available at the local, national, and international levels through active publications and exhibitions programs, online databases, and a wide range of public programming that includes lectures, performances, and symposia. The Research Library The Research Library service desks, including the Special Collections Reading Room, were open to serve outside patrons for approximately 38 hours per week. As of June 30, a total of 9,561 readers were registered to use the library. The Research Library recorded 13,346 visits by outside patrons to the collections. Nearly 450 Extended Readers were provided access to the library for an additional 50 hours per week. Research Library staff answered 14,802 reference requests made by outside patrons. The Research Library circulated 44,200 items to outside patrons. The Research Library received 9,583 Interlibrary Loan Requests from other libraries and academic institutions. The Research Library circulated 25,486 general collections and 18,714 special collections items to outside patrons for a total of 44,200 items in FY 15. The Research Library loaned 110 original items for public exhibition to outside institutions, including the exhibitions Art Fahrenheit 451, Sailing Into The Sea Of Oblivion at the Yokohama Museum of Art, Yokohama, Brush and Shutter: Early Photography in China at the Stavanger Art Museum, Stavanger, Norway, and The City Lost and Found: Capturing New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles, 1960-1980 at the Art Institute of Chicago. The Research Library staff hosted meetings and provided mentoring, training, workshops, participated in symposiums, panel discussions, and lectures and classes for non-profit cultural and professional organizations, colleges, universities and other institutions. Research Databases Since April 1, 2011, the Getty has provided access to the Bibliography of the History of Art (BHA) and to the Répertoire de la littérature de l'art (RILA) for no charge on its Web site at http://library.getty.edu/bha. The databases, searchable together, cover material published between 1975 and 2007, and average approximately 880 online searches per day. The Getty Research Portal has added another three contributing institutions, and now offers global and open access to more than 85,000 digitized art history texts. In the past year, 144,221 searches were performed in the Portal. The Project for the Study of Collecting and Provenance (PSCP), which includes the Getty Provenance Index, has been working on two new database projects: "British Sales 1680-1780" which is a collaboration with the National Gallery, London, and the "Knoedler Stock Books 1872-1970" which is supported by a grant of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation. Both databases will be accessible online free of charge once completed. The Provenance Index Databases-with transcriptions of archival inventories, sale catalogs, dealer stock books, and other relevant documents-offer a rich resource for scholars around the world interested in the study of collecting, art markets, and provenance. The Getty Vocabulary Program provided online resources, education and outreach activities, mentoring and training, including Webinars, telephone and e-mail consultations, workshops, presentations at conferences, and on-site meetings and demonstrations, to Web users as well as staff from numerous non-profit cultural organizations during fiscal year 2015. The four Getty vocabulary databases (Art & Architecture Thesaurus, Union List of Artist Names, Getty Thesaurus of Geographic Names, and Cultural Objects Name Authority) continued to be available on the World Wide Web free of charge. Average usage (page views) for all three of these searchable vocabularies for 2015 were consistently among the top resources accessed at the GRI Web site, growing to approximately 220,000 searches per month, with users from all fifty states in the United States and many foreign countries, the preponderance of usage of the Getty vocabularies on the Web is from ".edu" and ".org" institutions. In addition the ongoing licensing of the data files to not for profits, a new method of releasing the data free of charge as Linked Open Data was put into effect for AAT, TGN, and ULAN, allowing implementers of the vocabularies to freely link and use the data in digital art history and other applications. The vocabulary resources are heavily used and accessed by thousands of users monthly, including libraries, museums, archival professionals, students, and other users in the U.S. and internationally. The publications of the Vocabulary Program, including a revised edition of the Introduction to Controlled Vocabularies, the online Categories for the Description of Works of Art, editorial manuals, training modules, cataloguing examples, and sample data for downloading and testing, continued to be available free of charge on the GRI's Web site. Digital Collections The Research Institute significantly increased its production of digitization of books, photographs, works on paper, and other special collection material during FY2015. The images, created and ingested this year total over 262,000 individual images from the special collections and 1,900,000 pages from the library's book collections. Part IX-A Summary of Direct Charitable Activities Line 3	Part IX-A Summary of Direct Charitable Activities Line 3	The Getty Conservation Institute ("GCI") The Getty Conservation Institute (GCI) serves the conservation community through scientific research, education and training, model field projects, and the dissemination of the results of both its own work and the work of others in the field. The GCI focuses on the creation and delivery of knowledge that will benefit the professionals and organizations responsible for the conservation of the world's cultural heritage. Examples of the Getty Conservation Institute's activities in North and Central America, Africa, Europe, and the Middle East are included below. In July 2014 the GCI and the Centre de Recherche et de Restauration des Musées de France (C2RMF) held the third Recent Advances in Characterizing Asian Lacquer workshop at the C2RMF laboratories at the Louvre in Paris. Seventeen conservators and scientists from around Europe were invited for a week to use specialized sampling, analytical techniques, and data evaluation tools presented in the workshop to study samples of lacquered objects from their own collections and to present their findings. The workshop provided a unique opportunity for scientists and conservators to collaborate in the hands-on study of lacquer objects and to address their own research questions. From July 28 to August 8, 2014, the GCI and the Hungarian National Museum (HNM) welcomed sixteen conservators from thirteen countries (Australia, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Poland, Slovakia, Slovenia, and United Arab Emirates) to a workshop, Identification and Conservation Strategies for Color and Digital Prints. The workshop, held at the HNM in Budapest, was the second of the advanced-level workshops conducted as part of the GCI's Preservation of Photographs and Photograph Collections project with the aim of presenting conservators with up-to-date research and current technological trends in color and digital prints. In September 2013, the GCI and the Dunhuang Academy opened to the public a new Visitor Center for the Mogao Grottoes of Dunhuang, China. This state-of-the-art facility now greets visitors with a site orientation before they are transported to the site to see the actual caves and the other on-site exhibitions. The Visitor Center is part of the site's comprehensive visitor management plan, which also includes the recently completed visitor capacity study. In November 2014 the GCI and the Yale Institute for the Preservation of Cultural Heritage (IPCH) launched the second in the XRF Boot Camp for Conservators workshop series to provide training and resources to improve the use of handheld XRF instruments for the study of cultural heritage. The four-day workshop welcomed eighteen conservators, conservation scientists, and archaeologists to the Getty Villa to provide in-depth training in the principles of X-ray fluorescence spectroscopy and the collection and interpretation of data, and it focuses on qualitative analysis and the use of handheld instrumentation. In conjunction with the Getty Conservation Institute's Conserving Modern Architecture Initiative which seeks to advance the practice of conserving twentieth-century heritage, on December 9, 2014, the GCI participated in From the Field: Conserving Southern California's Modern Architecture showcasing six recent projects by Los Angeles-area practitioners, each highlighting a different preservation challenge and building type, and presented by the practitioners themselves. On January 28, 2015, the GCI hosted Conserving the Eames House: A Case Study in Conservation to discuss studies and conservation work completed at the Eames House to date-including analysis and treatment on tallow wood paneling, initial repairs to the building envelope, paint analysis, and investigation and replacement of the vinyl tile floor covering-as well as plans for the next phase of the project. On February 24, 2015, the GCI and City of Los Angeles officially launched HistoricPlacesLA, the Los Angeles Historic Resources Inventory. HistoricPlacesLA is the first online information system specifically created to inventory, map, describe, and help protect significant cultural resources in Los Angeles, and is an important tool for protecting and preserving the character of the city's distinctive neighborhoods as Los Angeles continues to grow and change. In creating HistoricPlacesLA, the GCI customized the Arches system, an open source, web- and geospatially based information platform built to inventory and ultimately protect cultural heritage places. This software is available at no cost, and organizations using it may modify it to meet their specific needs. In March 2015 the GCI team returned to Morocco for a seventh campaign. The work consisted of implementation of urgent structural conservation measures and in situ training demonstrations in emergency wall painting stabilization methods with CERKAS staff for the Caïd Residence of Taourirt, as well as discussions relating to the next phase of the project. The Getty Conservation Institute's Science department lead 16 tours of our facilities to conservation professionals or groups, local colleges and universities (including Claremont College, USC's Architecture and Historic Preservation Programs, Santa Monica College, Trondheim University, Pomona College, Mount Saint Mary's College, Chaffey College, and the Korea National University of Cultural Heritage), local high school groups, and other professional organizations, including the Mana Contemporary in Chicago, Summer Institute on China's Dunhuang teacher workshop, National Media Museum, Amgen, Shanghai Jianwei Historic Architecture Conservation, and colleagues from the Cultural National Fund and the British Museum. The GCI hosted seven conservation guest scholars who conducted their own research on topics including the deterioration effects of panel painting reinforcements, the conservation of painted architectural surfaces, evaluating didactic methods for delivering archaeological conservation education, enhanced coatings for outdoor sculptures, and the investigation into materials and methods to restore damaged polymethylmethacrylate objects and works of art. The GCI hosted a postdoctoral fellow in the Science department working with the GCI's Collections Research group to investigate questions of authenticity, attribution, and artists' techniques, assist in the development and evaluation of conservation treatment programs, and contribute to the understanding of the physical properties and behavior of the materials comprising works of art. The Conservation Institute made available didactic resources that have been produced and used in the Institute's courses, workshops, and field training including teaching schedules, session outlines, bibliographies, technical notes, and videos relating to the Stone Conservation project. Two issues of Conservation Perspectives, The GCI Newsletter, were distributed free of charge around the world to over 8,000 international professionals in conservation and related fields and members of the public concerned about conservation. The GCI's YouTube channel made available videos on a variety of GCI activities including GCI projects, lectures, symposia and conferences for conservation professionals around the world. During the 2015 fiscal year, GCI videos have received over 83,000 views from around the world. The GCI Bulletin, a free bimonthly e-bulletin providing up-to-date information on the activities of the Getty Conservation Institute, was distributed free of charge to professional colleagues around the world. The GCI's free online comprehensive research database of abstracts and key resource for the professionals in the field of conservation, AATA Online, added over 2,000 new records including abstracts and new or updated GCI Project Bibliographies, related to preservation and conservation of materials cultural heritage. During the 2015 fiscal year, AATA Online had nearly 40,000 users visit the site. In addition to hundreds of online resources, additional GCI publications were made available free of charge on the Getty Web site during this time period including Estudio de daños a edificaciones históricas de tierra después del terremoto del 15 de agosto del 2007 en Pisco, Per, Visitor Management and Carrying Capacity at World Heritage Sites in China, Proyecto de Estabilización Sísmorresistente.
