EDUCATION OVERVIEW The mission of Into Your Hands-Africa is to empower youth and families in rural Uganda through education and enterprise development so they become self-directed, resourceful, productive members of their own communities. The organization supports a formal education program by partnering with secondary schools in order to achieve key goals in matriculation, retention, graduation rates, academic performance and school income. An agreed-upon Memorandum of Understanding between the school and Into Your Hands-Africa determines the partnership. All schools receiving a block grant must demonstrate strides in operating independently over time. The organizations current partners are St Denis Secondary School and St James Secondary School in Makando, Uganda. Into Your Hands-Africa support students of all grade levels with an emphasis on girls education. Successful students who complete senior 4 grade level can apply for an additional scholarship to continue their studies at the tertiary, vocational or university levels. This is an opportunity provided to less than 5% of the Ugandan student population. All in all, in 2015 134 students received scholarships from Into Your Hands-Africa. Additionally, in 2015, Into Your Hands-Africa piloted a new vocational program that offers hands-on, skilled training to the brightest and most motivated students. The programs intent is to support students with the necessary training so that upon graduation the student will return to his or her community to open a business or compete for a position in a local industry. In 2015, the organization partnered with four vocational schools in fields of farming, primary teaching, hairdressing, electrical technician, and veterinary services. Six students had the opportunity to participate in this program with the expectation that the program will be scaled to a larger population in the near future. In an effort to support schools in becoming accredited, Into Your Hands-Africa also provides an educational infrastructure program that supports capital improvements to partner schools. Past projects have included water and sanitation facilities, construction of school buildings, development of sustainable energy solutions, and the acquisition of information technology. In 2015, the St Denis Dining Hall began construction. Upon completion in 2016, the structure will include a dining area, storage unit, and kitchen.

ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT OVERVIEW The second programming block of Into Your Hands-Africa is enterprise development. Enterprise stimulates income generation and self-sufficiency through smallholder enterprise projects where participants learn valuable business skills and generate revenue to cover their financial needs. The organization supports family units, students, and community members through projects in farming or animal husbandry. To date, projects have included Send-a-Piglet-Home, Send-a-Chicken-Home, Send-a-Goat-Home, Clonal coffee and mango projects. Individual projects provide sustainability for future project beneficiaries through a pass-on system where a portion of the earnings from the original project is given as reimbursement to the organization in the form of plant seedlings or animals. Income generated through this project allows the beneficiary to expand their business in addition to supporting incurred family expenses such as health charges, school fees, and other relevant costs. In 2015, Into Your Hands-Africa piloted boar centers as a new enterprise program. Similar to alternative enterprise projects, the boar centers allow beneficiaries increased income and improved enterprise management skills, in addition to supporting the organizations Send-A-Piglet-Home program. Beneficiaries of the Send-A-Piglet-Home program partnered with boar centers for animal rearing. Nine new beneficiaries were selected to pilot this program. Furthermore, in 2015, the organization launched a mango program. Into Your Hands-Africa selected the mango project due to the heartiness of the plant, its nutritional value, and the longevity of potential income. The initial project was piloted with eleven beneficiaries with the expectation that the program would be scaled upon successful implementation. Beneficiaries are supported through initial training workshops, mentorship opportunities, veterinary services, and top-off trainings that include best practice training of their project. Beneficiaries are responsible for providing an acceptable shelter for the animal or clearing the land and digging holes for agricultural-based projects. In 2015, Into Your Hands-Africa distributed 110 piglets, 11 chickens, 9 boar centers, and 10 mango seedlings to a total of 160 students and families. Enterprise activities must occur within a supportive social context, as such, the third programming block of Into Your Hands-Africa is the Community Development Associations program. Self-sustainability, empowerment, and community leadership are the organizations top priorities. With this in mind, Into Your Hands-Africa encourages the community members to establish their own community development cooperatives in partnership with local stakeholders and community leaders. The Community Development Association program provides a forum for parents and community members to strategically address community development needs. Topic discussions are selected by community members and reflect relevant community issues such as gender roles, mango farming, organic farming, crop rotation, and irrigation.
