Facts And Circumstances Test

Current Year Facts and Circumstances GrantsWe applied for a second grant from Kellogg Foundation, which will provide an additional $250,000 a year for two years to help with implementation work. That support might help leverage a grant from the Hitachi Foundation as well. We applied for renewed and increased funding from the Surdna Foundation. We have also been invited to begin a conversation with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the NoVo Foundation and the JPB Foundation. Our grant writer is researching other foundations who have supported outreach on benefits such as the Earned Income Tax Credit and may be interested in helping implementation efforts once cities or states win paid sick days or paid family leave, even though they are not engaged in support for the initial policy work. We regularly send Letters of Intent and Grant Proposals to private foundations on an annual basis and have secured funding from a dozen foundation supporters on average per year the past three years. DonorsWe initiated a relationship with a consulting firm in DC to help raise money for state paid family leave campaigns. The firm has access to a wider circle of people of means than we have had in the past. This effort could boost education and public awareness efforts in a number of our member coalitions. With the pro bono help of donor consultant Beth Grupp, we pursued ways to increase our donor support in 2015 and reached nearly $100,000. That included identifying a network of connectors who can help lead us to new donors in their circle. We also held our Game Changer awards in Washington, DC as a fundraiser, with in-kind support from Covington and Burling. We hope to make this an annual event that will grow each year. We are working with an employee of Google who contacted us because he has a new father and cares about paid family leave and is impressed with our work. He is helping connect us to leaders in Bay Area tech companies. We regularly send donor emails to over 1000 contacts per month and have grown our individual donor base from 5 to more than 250 donors the past four years. We also incorporate fundraising pitches to over 300 individuals in person at our Annual Meeting and other events throughout the year. Social MediaFinally, we are increasing our use of social media as tools in fundraising eblasts, facebook posts and twitter. Our Digital Director is analyzing metrics from these efforts and ways to boost them. The firm has access to a wider circle of people of means than we have had in the past. This effort could boost education and public awareness efforts in a number of our member coalitions. With the pro bono help of donor consultant Beth Grupp, we are pursuing ways to increase our donor support to $125,000 this year. This includes identifying a network of connectors who can help lead us to new donors in their circle. Last year saw an 88 percent increase in donations from the prior year, a trend we expect to continue. We are working with an employee of Google who contacted us because he has a new father and cares about paid family leave and is impressed with our work. We are hoping he will hold a fundraiser for us with other employees there, and make that a model we can use with a lead donor at one or two other progressive companies. We regularly send donor emails to over 500 contacts per month and have significantly grown our individual donor base from 5 to 218 donors the past three years. We also incorporate fundraising pitches to over 300 individuals in person at our Annual Meeting, Annual Summit and other events throughout the year.
