Account Detail

Total Purchases vs. Market Value" is provided to assist you in comparing your Total Purchases," excluding reinvested distributions, with the current value of the mutual fund positions in your account.

"Cumulative Cash Distributions" when shown, may reflect distributions on shares no longer held in the account. It may not reflect all distributions received in cash; due to but not limited to: investments made prior to addition of this information on statements; securities transfers; timing of recent distributions, and certain adjustments made in your account.

berowaline per share fall. In some circumstances money market funds may be forced to cease operations when the value of a fund drops below $1.00 per share. In that event, the fund's holdings would be liquidated the fund's shareholders. This liquidation process could take up to one month or more. During that time, these funds would not be available to support purchases, withdrawals, and if applicable, "Net Value Increase/ (Decrease)" reflects the difference between your total purchases, and the sum of the current value of the fund's shares, and cash distributions shown. This calculation is for informational government agency. Although money market funds seek to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, there can be no assurance that will occur and it is possible to lose money should the fund purposes only and does not reflect your total unrealized gain or loss nor should it be used for lax purposes. An investment in a money market fund is neither insured nor guaranteed by the FDIC or any other check writing to ATM debits from your account.

Certain mutual funds may not be transferable to other broker-dealers. For further information, refer to the fund's Prospectus or call your Financial Advisor. Current Yield is the estimated annual income (EAI) divided by the fund's net asset value as of the end of the statement period. Distributions may consist of income, capital gains or the returns of capital distributions. EAI is based upon information provided by an outside vendor and is not verified by us.
