Part V, Line 4	The William Dawson Education Endowment was established to support research and professional development opportunities for young people who would ultimately become future leaders for the performing arts field - professional development was a key goal of William Dawson, former APAP executive director. This is primarily accomplished in partnership with the Bolz Center for Arts Administration, University of Wisconsin. In 2015, graduate students at the Bolz Center researched leadership development strategies to assist APAP Programs staff and consultants with planning the curriculum to launch APAP's new Leadership Fellows Program, including the agenda for a five-day Intensive for the first cohort of students. This research included attendance at the APAP NYC annual conference where students interviewed leaders in the field as part of their research. Dawson Endowment funds were also used to assist with providing scholarships for six individuals to participate in the first cohort of the LFP program that launched with the five-day Intensive in June 2015.
