In fulfilling its mission of investigating, documenting and reporting incidents of anti-Semitism on college campuses, AMCHA Initiative tracked antisemitic incidents on university campuses across the country through monitoring media sources, social media accounts, and student reported incidents of campus antisemitism. The incidents were documented and reported on the AMCHA website in Student Voices and Campus Monitor Pages that tracked swastikas and other antisemitic graffiti, disruptions of Jewish student events, actions that promoted divestment from Israel, and faculty who publicly supported the boycott of Israel academic and cultural institutions. The data were compiled and released in a report informing the public, Antisemitic Activity in 2015 at U.S. Colleges and Universities with the Largest Jewish Undergraduate Populations. The report found that more than 300 antisemitic incidents had occurred in 2015, and that 70% of schools had played host to one or more kinds of antisemitic activity. Further, there was a strong and statistically significant correlation between the presence on campus of anti-Zionist student groups and the occurrence of antisemitic activity. 99% of schools with one or more anti-Zionist groups had one or more incidents of antisemitic activity, whereas only 16% of schools with no active anti-Zionist student groups had such incidents. Moreover, there was a strong and statistically significant correlation between the presence of faculty who had expressed public support for a boycott of Israel academic institutions and the occurrence of antisemitic incidents. 81% of schools with one or more faculty boycotters had one or more incidents of antisemitic activity, whereas only 17% of schools with no faculty boycotters had such incidents. The strongest predictor of anti-Jewish hostility on campus was actions that promoted boycott, Divestment and Sanctions against Israel. The work was reported publicly in more than 750 articles and op-eds published in a wide array of newspapers, including the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Times, Times of Israel, and Inside Higher Education. Moreover, AMCHA had several notable successes in 2015-2016 in directly combating campus antisemitism, including: As a result of AMCHA-led coalition efforts, the University of California Regents, for the first time, publicly acknowledged the problem of antisemitism on UC campuses, committed themselves to addressing the problem, and issued a resolution condemning antisemitic bigotry and antisemitic forms of anti-Zionism on their campuses. AMCHA established and has facilitated an at-will coalition of more than 50 civil rights, education and advocacy organizations to strategize about and participate in joint actions to combat campus antisemitism. AMCHA's previous report on the anti-Israel bias of federally-funded Middle East studies programs played a significant role in persuading government officials to address the problem.
