Supplemental Information. Provide the information required in Part I, line 2, Part III, column (b), and any other additional information.

Return Reference	Explanation
Part I, Line 2	Grants distributed by the Organization are applied directly against the students' tuition. Funds are not ever paid directly to the recipient. The recipient is notified of the scholarship by written communication. Additionally, the Organization provides a discount to families with more than one member participating in the program. The Organization understands the strain on finances of multiple family members participating in the program and this provides some relief.

990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 11	A draft of the 990 is provided to the Treasurer and President for thorough review , then after adjustments are made, the draft is presented to the Board and approved
Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 12c	Officers, directors and key employees are required to complete a conflict of interest disclosure yearly in January The Finance Manager collects those forms and notes any identified related parties to monitor transactions throughout the year

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 15	The review of compensation arrangement shall be by the Board. The Board shall be comprised of those Board members who are disinterested and detached from the Disqualified Person involved in the Transaction. The members of the Board may not have any personal interest in the compensation arrangement. Since the Board shall be disinterested, the Board may be differently constituted depending upon the Transaction arrangement under review. A subordinate of a Disqualified Person may not sit on the Board when the Disqualified Person's compensation arrangement is under review. The Board shall use comparability data prior to the approval of any compensation arrangements. The data shall include but is not limited to: 1. Industry surveys, 2. Documented compensation of persons in similar positions in similar organizations (e.g., data can be obtained by documented phone calls), or 3. Compensation studies. If an outside consultant is used to perform a compensation study or to determine the reasonableness of the compensation, the consultants should be "truly" independent, e.g., not had dealings with the Employee in question for more than a year, and preferably for three years, and be supervised by non-employee members of the Board. When using compensation studies, it is important that the studies include the following: - a complete list of the names of each compared organization, - identification of each compared organization as for-profit or tax-exempt, - the annual revenues of each compared organization, - the number of employees each compared organization has, - the standard industry code of each for-profit compared organization, - the National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities code of each compared exempt organization, and - a breakdown of the compensation package of each executive in each compared organization including current salary, annual incentive compensation, bonuses, deferred compensation, long-term incentive compensation, value of fringe benefits, pension benefits, supplemental retirement benefits, severance compensation, the value of stock options, and consulting fees received. It is the responsibility of the Board to adequately document, preferably in the form of minutes, the basis for its determination. This documentation must be concurrent with the decision and shall be created no later than 60 days after the compensation approval. The documentation must include the following: 1. The terms of the transaction and the approval date. 2. The members of the Board who were in attendance and those who were absent and whether they voted for or against the arrangement. 3. The comparability data that was relied upon by the Board in making its decision.
Form 990, Part VI, Section C, line 19	Governing documents and financial statements may be obtained at CPYB's office upon request.
