A partnership between Cornell University and the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology, the Jacobs Technion-Cornell Institute is a key component of Cornell Tech, the world-class applied sciences campus opening on New York City's Roosevelt Island in 2017. The Jacobs Institute is delivering a new kind of multidisciplinary education and research, dedicated to producing engineers, scientists and technology experts with real-world entrepreneurial experience. Students enrolled in the two-year Master of Science (M.S.) in Information Systems program earn dual master's degrees concurrently - one from Cornell and one from the Technion - in Connective Media and Health Tech. Faculty, postdoctoral associates and graduate students pursue basic and applied research, in collaboration with industry partners. A priority is research on topics with potential for technology transfer to established companies, or to form the basis of entrepreneurial ventures. The campus will also house an onsite startup incubator and accelerator space, as well as a technology transfer office to assist in obtaining patents and moving technology from the lab to the marketplace.

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
FIN 48	Part X, Line 2 The society follows guidance that clarifies the accounting for uncertainty in tax positions taken or expected to be taken in a tax return, including issues relating to financial statement recognition and measurement. This standard provides that the tax effects from an uncertain tax position can be recognized in the financial statements only if the position is "more-likely-than-not" to be sustained if the position were to be challenged by a taxing authority. The assessment of the tax position is based solely on the technical merits of the position, without regard to the likelihood that the tax position may be challenged. The society is exempt from federal income tax under IRC section 501(c)(3), though it is subject to tax on income unrelated to its exempt purpose, unless that income is otherwise excluded by the code. The society has processes presently in place to ensure the maintenance of its tax-exempt status, to identify and report unrelated income, to determine its filing and tax obligations in jurisdictions for which it has nexus, and to identify and evaluate other matters that may be considered tax positions. The tax years ended September 30, 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016 are still open to audit for both federal and state purposes. The society has determined that there are no material uncertain tax positions that require recognition or disclosure in the financial statements.
