Social Services Established in 1923, The Cradle provides professional counseling, education and support to women and men facing unplanned pregnancies, to prospective parents seeking to form or expand their families through adoption, and to all members of the adoption triad on a post-adoption basis. Traditionally, our core services have been delivered through one-on-one counseling with our clients, but increasingly, The Cradle is taking advantage of various technologies to provide information, support and education to people who are touched by adoption in every corner of the United States and, indeed, around the world. We view our role with clients as a partnership, with the goal of providing clients with sufficient information, education, guidance and support to enable them to make the best decision for themselves and their family. In Fiscal 2016, we received 961 calls from birth/expectant parents inquiring about domestic adoption as an option. 433 clients entered into a counseling relationship with us. In this same period, 140 prospective adopting parents explored the options of domestic or international adoption as a means for forming or expanding their families. The Cradle's social work staff conducted 73 Home Studies for these families. The Home Study process at The Cradle emphasizes the importance of readiness and preparation to become an adoptive family. We help families determine if adoption is, indeed, right for them, and if so which type of adoption is the best fit: domestic or international. 62 families adopted children through our domestic program this year, 4 families adopted children from 4 countries abroad. The Cradle is an important resource for minority children, most especially for black infants. Of the 65 children placed with adoptive families, 28 were black or bi-racial. The Ardythe and Gale Sayers Center for African American Adoption undertakes extensive outreach within the black community to recruit families for these children. Twenty informational/recruitment meetings were conducted in 2016. Increasingly, we are using our website to allow families to share their stories with the goal of encouraging more parents to consider adopting a black child. <http://www.cradle.org/adoptive-parents-adoption-stones> Adoption is a lifelong process, not a singular event. Our Post Adoption Department offers a variety of services to those served by The Cradle over our 90+ years including providing medical and social background information to adult adopted persons, and facilitating meetings between adopted persons and birth relatives, often in cases where the adoption was closed. Over the past 20 years, The Cradle has practiced open adoption and now most of the domestic adoptions handled by The Cradle are open (i.e. the birth family and adoptive family have the ability to be in direct contact with each other). The Cradle also provides individual and family counseling to those who are dealing with adoption-related issues, 1,217 counseling sessions were held in 2016. Social workers are able to offer resources to help families access various resources such as school-based assistance, as well as providing guidance and support for issues such as behavior and discipline, etc.

4b (Code) (Expenses $ 1,030,499 including grants of $) (Revenue $)

Nursery The Cradle's onsite, 24-hour Nursery is the only one of its kind in the United States. Its purpose is to provide professional, nurturing care to infants under the age of one year whose birth parents are considering adoption. While some birth parents choose to have their babies go directly from the hospital to their adoptive family, others are not certain about an adoption decision and use the Nursery as a neutral, temporary haven while they consider their options. The Nursery is also an important haven for babies born with special needs. It can sometimes take many months to locate an adoptive family for a special needs baby, and The Cradle's Nursery is a critically important resource for these children. In 2016, 82 children were admitted to the Nursery. The average length of stay was 22 days, and 22 babies had some degree of special need.

4c (Code) (Expenses $ 1,079,689 including grants of $) (Revenue $)

Outreach and Communications In the course of FY 2016, The Cradle's outreach team connected with 1,555 social service and health care professionals and educators in Illinois and Indiana. We conducted more than 200 in-service and classroom presentations, helping 1,600 professionals and students better understand the realities of adoption today, including grief & loss in adoption, ethical adoption practice, and how best to respect a birthparent's rights. Our 2016 adoption communications efforts extended to broadcast and digital media, search advertising as well as social networking sites like Facebook, YouTube, and Twitter.
