Pt VI, Line 15a

HOPE worldwide used the "Hay Guide Chart" method of job evaluation. Jobs are evaluated using data obtained from job descriptions prepared by the position's supervisors and the job incumbent (if the position is already filled) or the Board. The resulting job sizing structure provides an internal hierarchy of jobs based on the content. Using job sizes and the market salary information, the Chief Operating Officer will establish salary levels and median salaries for each range and present that information to the compensation committee of the BOD. The supervisor may then determine the employee's salary within the prescribed range based on the employee's qualifications and budget restraints.
