Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Kyrgyzstan CGP-Program 3021The Collaborative Governance Program (CGP), funded by the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), is a five-year project that works to foster effective collaboration between civil society, the private sector, and the Government of the Kyrgyz Republic (GoKR), resulting in a more responsible and accountable government, improved delivery of social services to citizens, and a more credible and sustainable civil society. CGP supports the GoKR's efforts to increase civil society participation in service delivery through social procurement mechanisms and works to strengthen civil society's ability to shape public policy, enhance government transparency and outreach to citizens, as well as expand civic engagement and advocacy efforts. To improve the capacity of local civil society organizations (CSOs), CGP has developed a process that includes an initial voluntary profiling of CSOs, followed by a diagnostic review of interested CSOs that reveals their individual strengths and weaknesses. CSOs that complete this process receive organizational health reports and capacity strengthening plans. By the end of 2016, 583 organizations had completed the profiling process and 279 had undergone the diagnostic process. CGP offered a series of organization development seminars to CSOs that completed the diagnostic process. CGP has also introduced non-profit management (NPM) education to 11 Kyrgyz universities, in an effort to develop and build the skills of the next generation of civil society leaders. By the end of 2016, CGP had introduced four new NPM courses that were delivered to over 1,300 students at the participating universities. EWMI had also established Nonprofit Management Resource Centers at four Kyrgyz universities by the end of 2016.
