Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Council and committee activities - The Council and Committee structure has direct oversight of all research, education and professional program activities. A Science Council directs all research funding activities and produces scientific and technical reports discussing the ongoing research in medical physics. The Science Council contributes to the program of the Annual Meeting. The Education Council has responsibility for developing and monitoring all continuing education programs for the Association. The Professional Council maintains a focus on the clinical practice of medical physics and helps to develop practice and other recommended guidelines for medical physicists to use in their clinical work. The Councils oversee the major awards and grants given by AAPM.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Education and professional development - A scientific meeting is held annually to enable members to present the results of their latest research. In 2016 there were over 4,800 participants and approximately 2,200 proffered submissions. The program also drew over 100 exhibitors who presented their latest products and services to participants in the exhibition hall. Sessions are segregated by professional interest and include imaging physics, therapy physics, and professional issues and practices. In addition, a Spring Clinical Meeting is held devoted to the clinical issues facing medical physicists. A single-topic Summer School is presented annually, and a number of other special topic conferences are held throughout the year with a total of more than 900 participants. Several of these specialty meetings also include vendor exhibits.

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 15a	the executive committee functions as a performance review committee charged with annually reviewing and setting the compensation for the executive director. This review will take place at the last meeting of the year of the AAPM board of directors. The current president will communicate to the executive director the results of the performance review and the compensation status for the coming year. The treasurer is responsible for communication of the executive director's salary to the human resources director's office at American Institute of Physics. Payroll and HR is outsourced to the American Institute of Physics. The sub-committee on AAPM compensation practices is required each year to examine the current AAPM salary program covering all headquarters staff and to make recommendations regarding the salary structure and staff levels. In addition, the sub-committee is to advise the executive committee on matters involving job performance evaluation and compensation policy. The executive director or the appropriate supervisor is to conduct a performance evaluation for each headquarters staff at least annually. In the case of a new employee, an additional evaluation will take place upon completion of a probationary period, usually six months after the date of employment, or as agreed to by the executive director and the new employee. These evaluations are to be recorded and be available to the executive committee for review, if desired. If performance is below standard, a corrective interview must be held as soon as possible.
