Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

In 2016, Welcoming America significantly grew its efforts and impact toward inspiring people to build a different kind of community one that embraces immigrants and fosters opportunity for all. Among the organizations accomplishments Using its innovative, place-based approach, Welcoming America worked with partners to create a climate and policy environment where more individuals including immigrants and refugees were able to participate more fully in social, civic and economic life, contributing to a more prosperous and vibrant community for all. This included establishing new infrastructure in communities to support immigrant inclusion, as well as the creation of new policies and practices in localities that helped to build bridges between new and long-time residents, expand economic opportunity, increase equitable access to services, and enable more New Americans to participate in civic life. To provide a roadmap for immigrant inclusion and hold communities accountable, Welcoming America developed the Welcoming Standard in 2016 -- a comprehensive set of policies, programs, processes, and partnerships that are core to immigrant inclusion. The Standard, developed in collaboration with diverse leaders and local governments, is the backbone for the new Certified Welcoming program that formally recognizes communities for achieving the high bar set by the Welcoming Standard. Such efforts also helped to create benefits for the broader community. For example, research published by the Fiscal Policy Institute in partnership with the Welcoming Economies Global Network demonstrates the potential of welcoming immigrants and refugees to neighborhood revitalization. The report and interactive tool show that immigrants have strong rates of potential homeownership in 23 target cities, and suggest that efforts that encourage homeownership or vacant property purchase could yield significant returns. The research was highlighted by CNN Money and The Atlantics Renewal Project. Academic research also reaffirmed the ties between welcoming immigrants and the economic, social, and civic health of communities. Recent studies include data correlating local immigrant communities with greater direct foreign investment (The Journal of Finance, <http://bit.ly/2wnvrcP>), contribute to local economic growth (USC Dornsife Program, Everett Program <http://bit.ly/2wBlc4g>), and counterbalancing population decline in Midwestern communities (The Chicago Council on Global Affairs, <http://bit.ly/1PRjHRG>). In furtherance of this impact, Welcoming America grew and connected the movement of leaders working to foster inclusive communities, building a growing network of 161 local government and nonprofit members working in more than 500 communities. The organization also reached over 7,000 leaders through 50 trainings, delivering tools and expertise on building welcoming communities. Welcoming America also grew the welcoming movement through events and campaigns that engaged thousands of Americans. National Welcoming Week, hosted in September of 2016, saw more than 390 events in more than 80 communities across the country. And as a lead partner for the White Houses Building Welcoming Communities Campaign, Welcoming America worked with the Domestic Policy Council, USCIS and other federal agencies to support local innovation in the area of immigrant integration. In 2015, Welcoming Americas founder and Executive Director David Lubell was chosen as a 2015 Young Global Leader by the World Economic Forum, was a recipient of the Chronicle of Philanthropy's first-ever 40 under 40, and in 2016 was honored with the Ohtli Award.
