Portfolio Statement

December 1, 2016 - December 31, 2016

Washington Trust is pleased to provide your December Monthly Statement. You may also receive what appears to be a duplicate statement in this reporting period, as a separate Annual Statement may also be provided to you that reflects the entire year's activity in one statement.

At the back of this statement under the Disclosures page, several disclosures may affect your account with us. Please review this area for commentary and disclosure information. For your convenience, the contact information for your Relationship Team is listed below should you require additional account information or clarification of any item in your statement.

Would you like to reduce your paper statements? We can assist you in setting up electronic statements.

We greatly appreciate the opportunity to serve you in 2016 by allowing us to provide you the best solutions to your financial objectives.

Thank you for being a valued client of Washington Trust Bank!

Washington Trust Bank relies on industry pricing services to provide the market value of assets traded on security exchanges, such as stocks, bonds and mutual funds. Such information is deemed reliable based on the closing bid price for the last business day, but it is not guaranteed and should not be interpreted as the price at which an entire position could be sold. Assets that are not traded on securities exchanges are valued infrequently and the market values reflected on this statement are not reliable as a price at which these assets may be bought or sold.

Note: the term bid price is used by the investment industry to indicate the price where a security could be sold.

Such information is deemed reliable based on the closing bid price for the last business day, but it is not guaranteed and should not be interpreted as the price at which an entire position could be sold. Assets that are not traded on securities exchanges are valued infrequently and the market values reflected on this statement are not reliable as a price at which these assets may be bought or sold.

Note: the term "bid price" is used by the investment industry to indicate the price where a security could be sold.

This statement's beginning market value corresponds with the ending market value of the prior period's statement. For a more detailed beginning market value of each asset, please refer to the prior period's statement. If you do not have the prior period's statement, please contact your Relationship Manager for a copy. If you find any inaccuracy or discrepancy with your account, please report the issue promptly to your Relationship Manager. Any oral communications between you and your Relationship Manager should be re-confirmed in writing to further protect your rights.

You may petition a Superior Court in Washington State under RCW 11.96A to obtain review of this statement and of the acts of the Trustee disclosed in this statement. According to the law of the State of Washington, any claims against the Trustee for breach of trust may not be commenced after the expiration of three (3) years from the date you receive this statement. RCW 11.96A.070(1). Additionally, any claim against a personal representative for alleged breach of fiduciary duty must be brought before discharge of the personal representative. RCW 11.96A.070(2). Please see Washington statute RCW 11.96A.070 for the complete text.

According to the law of the State of Oregon, a civil action against the Trustee based on any act or omission of the trustee, whether based in tort, contract or other theory of recovery, must be commenced within six (6) years after the date the act or omission is discovered, or six (6) years after the date the act or omission should have been discovered, whichever is earlier. ORS §130.820(1).

A beneficiary may not commence a proceeding against a trustee more than one year after the date the beneficiary is sent a report that adequately discloses the existence of a potential claim and that informs the beneficiary of the time allowed for commencing a proceeding. ORS §130.820(2).

If neither of the above sections applies, a judicial proceeding against a trustee must be commenced within 10 years from the date of the act or omission complained of, or two years from the termination of any fiduciary account established under the trust, whichever is later. ORS §130.820(3). Please see Oregon statute ORS §130.820 for the complete text.

You may petition a District Court in the State of Idaho under I.C. §15-8-102 to obtain review of this statement and of the acts of the Trustee disclosed in this statement. According to the law of the State of Idaho, a claim against a custodial trustee for accounting or breach of duty is barred as to a beneficiary, who: (1) has received a final account or statement fully disclosing the matter, unless an action is commenced within two (2) years after receipt of final account or statement; or (2) has not received a final account or statement fully disclosing the matter, unless an action is commenced within three (3) years after the termination of the custodial trust. I.C. §68-1316(1) (a)-(b).

A claim for relief to recover from a custodial trustee for fraud, misrepresentation, or concealment related to the final settlement of the custodial trust or concealment of the existence of the custodial trust, is barred unless an action is commenced within five (5) years after the termination of the custodial trust. I.C. §68-1316(2).

A claim is not barred if the claimant: (1) is a minor, until the earlier of two(2) years after the claimant becomes an adult or dies; (2) is an incapacitated adult, until the earliest of two(2) years after the appointment of a conservator, the removal of the incapacity, or the death of the claimant; or (3) was an adult, now deceased, who was not incapacitated, until two(2) years after the claimant's death. I.C. §68-1316(3).

Unless previously barred by adjudication, consent or limitation, any claim against a trustee for breach of trust is barred as to any beneficiary who has received a final account or other statement fully disclosing the matter unless a proceeding to assert the claim is commenced within six (6) months after receipt of the final account or statement. In any event, and notwithstanding lack of full disclosure, a trustee who has issued a final account or statement received by the beneficiary and has informed the beneficiary of the location and availability of records for his examination is protected after three (3) years. A beneficiary is deemed to have received a final account or statement if, being an adult, it is received by him personally or if, being a minor or disabled person, it is received

Return of Capital Reclassification (ROCR)

If your portfolio is a trust, you may have been affected by a Return of Capital Reclassification (ROCR) included in this annual statement.

What is a Return of Capital Reclassification?

* Return of capital is the portion of a distribution that does not consist of dividends, interest or realized capital gains. For example, if a mutual fund pays $1 in distributions but only makes 90 cents in interest, dividends and capital gains on investments it sold during the year, the remaining 10 cents will be classified as Return on Capital Reclassification (ROCR).

Annually, mutual fund companies review their previous year's activity to determine if a reclassification of income is required. This type of adjustment can occur with most any mutual fund - and may be processed any time during the following year. These adjustments may cause a portion of the income previously posted to the income portfolio of your trust account to be "reclassified," and that specific amount will be transferred from the income portfolio to the principal portfolio.

As for adjusting your tax records, ROCR is not immediately taxable. Instead, it is deducted from the Adjusted Cost Basis, which gives rise to a larger capital gain - or smaller capital loss - when the investment is ultimately sold. So, ROCR has potential tax effect only when the asset is sold.
