PART I - LINE 2	Laureus USA captures impact using rigorous and tailored measurement and evaluation at the community, organization, and beneficiary level. For our grantees, we measure impact in three ways. Grantees submit bi-annual reports that collect information on their program capacity and success, evaluation capacity and fundraising capacity. Tracking this information allows us to understand how our unrestricted funding has enabled the organization to grow and scale their impact. Many of our grant partners also survey their participants using the Up2Us Sports High Impact Attributes survey, a validated survey tool that examines 8 essential social emotional competencies related to sport. Using this tool allows us to understand the impact these groups are having on the youth they serve. Additionally, grant partners participate in site visits from Laureus USA's Learning and Evaluation Specialist each year, during which they are assessed using Nike's Designed to Move's observation criteria for youth physical activity and early positive experience.
