ENERGY REALISM: While energy is both the root of our sustainability crises and key to resolving them, a fundamental lack of energy literacy exists-even among those actively engaged in the conversation about our energy future. This is evidenced on two sides of the spectrum, both among those who believe the "shale revolution" will usher in a new era of energy abundance and others who are convinced that renewable energy can fully provide the lifestyles to which we've grown accustomed. Through our Energy Realism Program, Post Carbon Institute engages with energy media, environmental/energy advocacy groups, policymakers, and concerned individuals to share an evidence-based story of our energy reality. We inspire these constituencies to raise questions about our energy trajectory, to embrace the need to use less energy, and to adopt conservation and community-scale, renewable energy. HIGHLIGHTS OF 2016: *The publication of Our Renewable Future, co-authored by Fellows Richard Heinberg and David Fridley, exploring the opportunities and challenges of the transition to a ~100% Renewable Energy Future; * A series of six recorded discussions with experts exploring the renewable energy transition in terms of the food system, justice, consumerism, the economy, infrastructure, and technology (<http://ourrenewablefuture.org/the-future/>); * The publication of COMMUNITY RESILIENCE: Post Carbon Institute believes that building community resilience is one of the most impactful, but under-invested, strategies for addressing the 21st century's sustainability crises. We support community resilience-building by merging thought leadership with on-the-ground efforts, all while grounding community resilience in resilience science and systems thinking. Recognizing that communities are the key to effective change and that resilience-building is an emerging process, PCI offers a robust resource platform, resilience.org, publications, public presentations, and multimedia to bring the best ideas and models for relocalizing economies and building a sustainable future. HIGHLIGHTS IN 2016 * Publication of nearly 2,000 articles and over 100 resources at resilience.org, which received 2.4 million visits from over 1.3 million unique visitors over the year (<http://www.resilience.org>); * A series of presentations to national, regional, and locally-based organizations on the topic of community resilience, including a guest residency at Green Mountain College and full-day workshop at the annual Community Action Partnership meeting; *The development of a 22-part, 4-hour long online course called Think Resilience: Preparing Communities for the Rest of the 21st Century and The Community Resilience Reader, a collection of original essays from leading
