990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part III, Line 4a	Recreation programs are provided for low to moderate income families and individuals, at-risk youth, and the elderly. Programs for youth include learn-to-swim classes /free swim, after-school drop in activities, competitive sports and access to a computer center. Palama's goal is to provide a safe and nurturing environment for youth during those hours when the risk for delinquency is high. Late Night Basketball during the summer months provides an option for teens to engage in a physical, team sport rather than delinquent activities. The Late Night League drew over 200 youth from various Kalihi area non-profits to the Palama gym for weekly games in June and July. In addition to the games, the teams were required to participate in educational and community service components which were led by the Honolulu Police Department, a League partner. In 2016, the senior citizens' program in which 235 seniors were registered, participated in line dancing, tai chi, Zumba, chair yoga, mah jong, hula, ukulele, pottery and sewing classes. The program is volunteer driven with seniors serving as coordinators and instructors.

Staff also work with probation officers to ensure compliance with Family Court plans. The program integrates mentoring, character development, one-on-one counseling, and group sessions to encourage the students to eliminate law violating behaviors and develop into healthy, productive adults. During the 2015-2016 contract year, 29 unduplicated students were served. While in the program, the number of law violations committed by these students dramatically decreased from 47 committed prior to entry to 11 while in the program. Program staff also conducts individual, group and family counseling sessions.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c	Delinquency Prevention Programs - Palama's Pakolea program coordinates football, basketball and volleyball for youth. In 1968 the Pakolea program was established in response to the low number of high school graduates from the community and the high number of boys rejected from entering the military. The program utilizes sports participation as an incentive to improve academic achievement and behavioral change. Even today, in addition to time on the field or court, academic hours are required for Pakolea participants. Assistance with homework, guest speakers, and other learning opportunities are conducted with the student athletes during these hours. Mentoring and character development are integrated into the program to develop student athletes who are respectful and value education. With a generous donation from an individual supporter, many of the players from the low-income neighborhood were awarded financial aid to pay their registration fees. This enabled a large number of community youth to participate in a structured sports program where they not only gained athletic skills, but made new friends and learned the values of being scholar athletes.
