Information and opinions were gathered directly from persons who represent the broad interests and perspectives of the community served by the hospital. Collection methods included four focus groups, telephone interviews, and online surveys targeted towards patients and community stakeholders including staff.

In addition to reviewing the secondary data available, the CNM CHNA team collected primary data through four focus groups, twelve interviews, sixty-five community surveys, and eighty eight staff surveys in an effort to identify the key issues that most impact the health of the communities served by Casa Colina Hospital. The identified health needs and drivers of health were presented at a community meeting to allow for a richer discussion of secondary data and additional considerations. The focus groups, interviews, community survey, staff survey, and the community meeting engaged a spectrum of local public health experts, community leaders, and residents.

Secondary data were collected from a wide range of local, county, and state sources to present indicators on demographics, mortality, morbidity, health behaviors, clinical care, social and economic factors, and physical environment. These categories are based on the Mobilizing Action Toward Community Health (MATCH) framework, which illustrates the interrelationships among the elements of health and their relationship to each other, including social and economic factors, health behaviors, clinical care, physical environmental, and health outcomes.

In order to calculate the estimate of bad debt expense attributable to charity care, the Company reviewed household income statistics from the 2007-2012 American Community Survey for all cities within a 10 mile radius of the hospital campus and calculated the number of household that would qualify for charity care based on a 200% of the Federal Poverty Limit threshold.

In evaluating the collectability of patient accounts receivable, the Company analyzes its past history and identifies trends for each of its major payor sources of revenue to estimate the appropriate allowances for both contractual adjustments and the provision for bad debts. For uninsured patients, only the amounts that would normally be paid by insurance companies are considered bad debt (ie bad debt is not calculated on gross charges but rather on average realizable commercial rates).

adjustments and doubtful accounts. In evaluating the collectability of patient accounts receivable, the Company analyzes its past history and identifies trends for each of its major payor sources of revenue to estimate the appropriate allowances for both contractual adjustments and doubtful accounts. Management regularly reviews data about these major payor sources of revenue in evaluating the sufficiency of these allowances. The difference between the standard rates (or the discounted rates, if negotiated) and the amounts actually collected after all reasonable collection efforts have been exhausted is charged off against the allowance for doubtful accounts.

The Company's allowance for doubtful accounts decreased from 9.3% of gross patient accounts receivable at March 31, 2016 to 4.5% of gross patient accounts receivable at March 31, 2017 due to a decrease in gross accounts receivable discharged six months or more prior the balance sheet date. In addition, the Company's write-offs were approximately $626,000 and $889,000 for the years ended March 31, 2017 and 2016, respectively. Casa Colina's focus, paraphrasing from the Mission Statement, is to provide individuals the opportunity to maximize their medical recovery and rehabilitation potential, thus promoting the health and well-being of the community and continually fulfilling Casa Colina's exempt purposes. Although most direct care services are reimbursed, there are many ways in which Casa Colina provides benefits to the community toward these ends on a subsidized or no-cost basis. For convenience and to aid tracking results from year to year, Casa Colina has adopted the categories advanced within Federal and California legislation pertaining to Community Benefits and the standards described in "Advancing the State of the Art in Community Benefit:

A User's Guide to Excellence and Accountability" (ASACB) as recommended by California's Office of State-wide Health Planning and Development. The broad categories are:

In addition to direct support through sponsorship, and as part of its own citizenship in the non-profit community, Casa Colina makes donations available to other organizations, particularly in cases where their overall mission or particular goal is aligned with Casa Colina's mission of service to persons with or at risk of disability. Community benefit in this sense was provided in forms ranging from sponsorships to donations of equipment, financial support, technical assistance, and the use of certain equipment.
