Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

EXHIBITIONS For 50 years, NYSCI has been one of the world's great science museums, known for our commitment to diverse audiences, our thoughtful experimentation, and for pushing the envelope on STEM learning. We've developed unforgettable exhibitions, programs, and products that engage, excite and inspire millions of visitors. NYSCI has gained international recognition and is consistently among the top three museum recipients of competitive grant funding from the National Science Foundation. In 2015, the White House recognized NYSCI with the nation's highest honor for museums: the 2015 National Medal of the Institute for Museum and Library Services. Through its place, NYSCI offers exhibits and programs that use Design-Make-Play methodologies to deepen visitor engagement and create broad pathways of opportunity for youth to pursue STEM careers. An unparalleled range of 450 permanent interactive exhibits explore chemistry, biology, astronomy, physics, genetics, and much more, all geared for children and adults. By combining these exhibits with the Outdoor Science Playground, Rocket Park Mini Golf, Maker Space, the Biochemistry, Astronomy and Connections Discovery Labs, the Preschool Place for Early Childhood Learning, and nationally replicated science education programs for underserved populations, NYSCI offers a high-tech, hands-on experience of discovery for visitors of all ages. CONNECTED WORLDS A first-of-its-kind interactive experience, rooted in data systems and sustainability science, Connected Worlds is an immersive exhibition that was custom-built for the iconic Great Inspire in all learners to make science, technology, engineering and math irresistible. DESIGN LAB The world's largest engineering exhibit of its kind, Design Lab is a living laboratory for new innovations in developing, teaching and evaluating design-based learning. Visitors of all ages learn the fundamentals of invention and design engineering by working together in five unique collaboration areas.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

EDUCATION SCIENCE CAREER LADDER (SCL) Part of today's Friedman Center, NYSCI's 30-year old signature program employs high school and college students to work as Explainers on the museum's floor, engaging the public, conducting science demos, and facilitating programs Over 70% of Explainers come from first or second-generation immigrant families as well as low-income households More than 3,000 students have worked as Explainers since 1986, of which 92% obtained college degrees or higher (compared to only 39% of their peers), and more than 60% go on to pursue STEM careers

ALAN J FRIEDMAN CENTER FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF YOUNG SCIENTISTS Created in honor of the memory of Dr Alan J Friedman, who led the institution from 1984 until 2006, the Friedman Center not only sustains the Science Career Ladder, but also facilitates strategic investments to develop new initiatives that expand our reach to youth across New York City, including opportunities like STEM Career Events where STEM professionals are invited to the museum to share their work and career journeys with young people, and explainer TV, which trains the next generation of science communicators by engaging them in the production of rich media content

Girl Power Helps girls build confidence and develop skills that will prepare them to be leaders in STEM fields A series of education and mentorship programs affirm young women's aspirations and provide tangible opportunities to support them along their education and career pathways NYSCI pledges to directly impact 2,000 girls across New York this year, and continue to expand in future years

Noticing Tools A creative platform for irresistible STEM learning Noticing Tools are a ground-breaking suite of iPad apps that make learning math and science irresistible through play, creative design projects, and collaboration

Queens 20/20 A multifaceted initiative to build creative STEM educational opportunities for young people and families in Community School District 24 Working in deep partnership with district leaders and a network of schools in the community, our goal is to offer programs that provide out-of-school time STEM opportunities, offer career resources and connections to industry for youth, and support parent engagement and leadership

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

Science Data and Network Literacy NYSCI has established itself as the global leader in education for the burgeoning fields of "big data and network science. We have developed multiple programs to bring data sciences to formal and informal learning environments, and have discovered the power of networks as an entry point into data sciences that is compelling and intuitive, while developing critical computational thinking skills.

NYSCI NEIGHBORS Launched in 2011, NYSCI Neighbors has engaged more than 700 families, schools, educators and community organizations within a two-mile radius of the museum. NYSCI Neighbors involves deep collaboration and partnerships with parent teacher associations, parent coordinators, school leaders and community organizations to provide enrichment opportunities for children during and after school. NYSCI Neighbors engages community members in educational activities that support whole family learning and strategies that mitigate cultural and language barriers.

SciPlay The Sara L. Schupf Family Center for Play, Science and Technology Learning is an applied research center studying how our intrinsic interest in play can feed our curiosity to learn. The research team has developed a suite of digital and curricular tools that draw on children's physical play as the basis for learning physics concepts.

990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 12c	NYSCI'S TRANSPARENCY POLICY Introduction The Internal Revenue Code imposes penalty taxes if NYSCI were to enter into an Excess Benefit Transaction with a Trustee or officer of NYSCI or with anyone else who, during the prior five years, has been in a position to exercise substantial influence over the affairs of NYSCI. A similar concern about conflicts of interest also informs the New York Not-for-Profit Law provisions about contracts involving not-for-profit organizations and their Trustees and officers. NYSCI has always been careful to avoid conflicts issues. Nevertheless, it is appropriate to set out NYSCI'S policy in a written statement which draws from the requirements of Federal and State law and also from other principles of good management. Definitions. A person who has "substantial influence over the affairs of NYSCI" means each Trustee and each senior officer of NYSCI including all NYSCI employees who are at the level of Director or above. For our purposes, it also means a corporation in which a Trustee or a senior officer is a director or officer or controls at least 10% of the voting power and a partnership in which a Trustee or a senior officer is entitled to at least 10% of the profits. We call each of those people and entities an "Influential Person." That also includes an individual's spouse or significant other, parents, children and their spouses, sisters and brothers, and sisters- and brothers-in-law. An Excess Benefit Transaction is a transaction in which NYSCI provides to an Influential Person an economic benefit that is worth more than the goods or services that NYSCI receives in return. The "Reviewer" is the committee designated by the Chairman to review transactions that require authorization under this policy statement. Review. Without first receiving authorization from the Reviewer: A) NYSCI may not do business with an Influential Person, B) No Influential Person may accept a gift or loan (other than a loan in the normal course of the lender's business) from a contractor or vendor of NYSCI and that has a value of more than $100, C) NYSCI may not make a contribution to any charity of which an Influential Person is a director or officer, and D) No Influential Person may give or loan to an employee of NYSCI, nor may an employee of NYSCI give or loan to an Influential Person, more than $1,000. The Reviewer may decline to grant authorization for a transaction under (A) only if the Reviewer determines that the proposed transaction would be an Excess Benefit Transaction. The Reviewer may decline to grant authorization for a transaction under (B), (C), or (D) only if the Reviewer determines that the proposed transaction would be inimical, or may be seen to be inimical, to responsible management of NYSCI. Large Contracts. Before NYSCI enters into any agreement for more than 2.5% of NYSCI's operating budget, it shall notify the Reviewer of the nature of the agreement and the name of the other party and furnish whatever information

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, line 15	Compensation for the CEO is reviewed and approved by the Board of Trustees, provided that persons with potential conflict of interest with respect to the compensation arrangements do not participate. The Board uses appropriate and adequate data to determine the reasonableness of the compensation being considered against industry standards. The Board discusses the compensation package in executive session at the appropriate quarterly Board meeting, followed by a closed door discussion with the CEO. The Board's approval of changes to the CEO's compensation, along with any associated performance goals, are captured in a formal signed agreement between the Board and the CEO. For key employees, the CEO uses industry standards substantiated by appropriate data such as compensation surveys, performance reviews, and a consideration of equity and parity within the organization. Written and signed performance reviews, which include future goals, are prepared and discussed between each key employee and the CEO. Changes to a key employee's compensation is documented in a written memo from the CEO to the key employee. The compensation review process was last conducted in 2017.
