American Rivers protects wild rivers, restores damaged rivers, and conserves clean water for people and nature. Headquartered in Washington, DC, American Rivers has offices across the country and more than 275,000 members, supporters, and volunteers. Through our river conservation work, we are ensuring clean drinking water supplies, revitalizing fish and wildlife, improving recreation, and leaving a legacy of healthy rivers for future generations. In 2017 alone, we worked with local communities to remove 11 dams, restored more than 407 miles of river through dam removal or dam reoperation, granted $1.2 million to local river conservation projects, and removed more than 2.5 million pounds of trash from rivers through National River Cleanup.

River Protection. Our River Protection work focuses on protecting riverside lands through Wild & Scenic designations and by establishing blue trails. The Blue Trails Program connects people to their hometown rivers through family-friendly recreation, and inspires them to see their rivers as valuable resources worthy of protection. We do that by providing guidance and training for communities that want to improve river-based recreation and protect rivers and lands. Through our Blue Trails program, American Rivers and our partners have permanently protected acres of priority riverside land and passed zoning and land development regulations that have resulted in improved water quality, preserved wildlife habitat, and prevented soil erosion.

Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Federal River Management Our Federal River Management work focuses on the reform of hydropower operation in the country While hydropower helps us supply much needed fossil-free energy, it is not without impacts Hydropower dams block rivers and can leave several miles of river sections dry In addition, they block fish passage, alter habitat for aquatic species, damage water quality and harm the overall integrity of the river ecosystems Through our hydropower reform program, we seek to modernize the operations of hydropower dams to improve their environmental performance using existing regulatory processes We also seek to improve policies that dictate hydropower licensing and promote responsible hydropower development

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

River Restoration The River Restoration Program brings rivers back to life by removing dams, replacing culverts, and restoring floodplains through practice, policy, and strategic capacity building. American Rivers acknowledges that we only need to give rivers a boost and their natural resiliency will allow them to recover and thrive. Our restoration work capitalizes on nature's strengths and those of our staff and partners to make a difference for rivers throughout the U.S. This year, rivers such as the Henry Fork River in North Carolina, Musconetcong River in New Jersey, White River in Vermont, and Dutchman Run in Pennsylvania are all flowing more freely, having been released from the harness of a dam through our on-the-ground project work. Momentum has been building as we train other organizations to restore their local rivers. Our national and state policy efforts are increasingly improving the regulatory landscape to allow for more efficient, high quality river restoration work in the future. In addition, outreach to federal agencies has resulted in new partnerships that will lead to strategic high priority restoration initiatives on federal lands across the country.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

Clean Water Supply Water What could be more important to our health, our communities, and our lives? By focusing our efforts on stopping pollution from sewage spills and stormwater runoff, American Rivers is working to ensure that our rivers and streams are safe for drinking, fishing, swimming and boating And by safeguarding small streams and wetlands, we are preserving nature's ability to filter and supply clean water As droughts, floods and waterborne diseases intensify with global warming, this "natural infrastructure" will become more important than ever We all need clean water There's no substitute But our nation's finite water supplies are under increasing stress from the needs of our growing population, development, energy production, irrigated agriculture, and the challenges brought by climate change As the source of water for many of our communities, rivers flow right through the center of the water supply Issue American Rivers is working to secure reliable and predictable clean water supplies for communities and the rivers on which they depend We advocate at the national, state, and local levels for water efficiency and low impact supply solutions that provide cheaper, faster, and more reliable water than costly and harmful new dams and other short-sighted water storage projects And we work to protect the water flowing in rivers so that it can continue to nourish our communities for years to come
