Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

FaithHealth Innovations, Inc provides technical, academic, and research assistance to the FaithHealth Division of Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center as part of the mission to improve access to health services and individual's health status through building and aligning community health assets beginning in the communities likely to be served by the Medical Center. The organization also continues to provide educational, consulting and support services to congregations, denominations and their leaders. During the year the organization provided a monthly average of 65 consultation hours to 42 congregations, ministers and church centered agencies. Additionally, The Leading Causes of Life Initiative is focused on multidisciplinary cross-cultural learning among 50 excerpt Fellows formed for the purpose of developing a clinically relevant model of care and support especially designed for the most vulnerable patients, families and neighborhoods. This is part of the filing organization's commitment to leading edge community benefit and access to care defined by population health principles. This project performs work and produces product through carefully designed convenings and peer-reviewed literature. The project traces its work to the foundations at the University of Cape Town in Religious Health Assets and the positive community assessment tools embraced by the World Health Organization, USAID, The Carter Center and Centers for Disease Control that are now visible in the population health principles regarding the "social determinants." The products of the initiative are used directly in our community programs, most directly in the mapping techniques and assessments that are integral to the community health needs assessment of North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Davie Medical Center, and Lexington Medical Center (all of which are affiliated hospitals of the filing organization). Finally, Stakeholder Health is a learning collaboration managed by the filing organization and funded by a dozen investing partners, all of which are non-profits healthcare systems focused on more effective community benefit programs. The three principles in the community health needs assessment implementation plan of North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Davie Medical Center, and Lexington Medical Center (all of which are affiliated hospitals of the filing organization) come directly from Stakeholder Health's high priority learning focus, large scale community partnerships, sharp focus on places and neighborhoods of greatest need and capacity building of community partners through education (exemplified by the practical tools developed in the Leading Cause of Life and Stakeholder Health initiatives.)
