Ryan White Program The Ryan White program works with HIV/AIDS patients to help manage their health as they live with the disease. The program is funded through the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) by its grantee, the Detroit Health Department. The program had 1,192 encounters and provides services to uninsured patients who need early intervention, diagnosis, and treatment. The goal of Ryan White is to increase life expectancy and the quality of life, to decrease transmission of the disease, and to reduce HIV morbidity. Neighborhood Health and Safety The Neighborhood Health and Safety Offices had 1,610 encounters, addressing health and safety issues on Detroit's east side. Two offices serve as information centers for residents of the community, providing them with education on health and safety. The offices organize and lead community safety patrols, promote block club development, organize neighborhood clean-ups, and provide education on health-disparity and on home safety. Bridges to HOPE The Bridges to HOPE (BTH) program is a co-creation with the community. It is built on existing community efforts to address the scarcity of resources available. The program is person-centered and uses a holistic approach to address poverty through increased self-sufficiency initiatives. The goal of Bridges to HOPE is for participants to create their own paths to a more secure and successful future. Bridges to HOPE recruits and trains mentors to work with participants for up to one year after completing the program. Mentors offer positive reinforcement and answer questions to support participants through their journeys. Bridges to HOPE held 3 programs with 61 participants.
