Return Reference	Explanation
Schedule I Page 2, Part III	The Children's Burn Foundation receives referrals for child burn survivors in numerous ways. A child may be referred from a physician, social worker or nurse working at a Burn Center. In some cases, the child's family might contact the foundation directly asking for support. In addition, especially, from outside the United States, there might be a link back to a child from that country that the Children's Burn Foundation treated previously. In all cases, once a child is referred, the Foundation requires photos, a medical history and, if necessary, the case is reviewed by a partner burn care physician too, before agreeing to become involved. The assistance to individuals is mostly in the form of reimbursement to third parties for the services provided to the affected individuals. The reimbursement is based on the bill/invoice submitted by the individuals or those received by the organization directly. The organization, in some cases, provides direct assistance to individuals in the form of grocery and gas cards.
