Charles R. Drew University is actively committed to training future generations to make a difference through a number of novel and innovative youth education "pipeline programs" which are unique among medical education programs in Southern California. The pipeline programs have two important goals: expose urban minority students to science studies while helping them develop a strong interest in science and research, and improve opportunities for urban minority students who wish to pursue careers in medicine and science. The programs are a series of educational steps that establish an academic continuum in medical education. The academic continuum starts at preschool with the Saturday Science Academy (SSA) programs, including the SSA junior white coat ceremony, and extends upward through the Lincoln-Drew Elementary School (grades K-6), Lincoln-Drew Middle School (grades 7 through 9) and the King/Drew Magnet High School of Medicine and Science (grades 10 through 12). The white coat ceremony is a nationwide medical school activity to signal the transition of medical students from book learning and lab work to the world of clinical practice and direct interaction with real patients. The SSA junior white coat ceremony seeks to embrace the spirit of this exercise through encouraging students to commit to lifelong learning.

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part X, Line 2	The University is an organization exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and Section 23701d of the California Revenue and Taxation Code, and is generally not subject to federal or state income taxes. However, the University is subject to income taxes on any net income that is derived from a trade or business, regularly carried on, and not in furtherance of the purpose for which it is granted exemption. No income tax provision has been recorded as the net income, if any, from any unrelated trade or business, in the opinion of the University's management, is not material to the financial statements taken as a whole. The university accounts for the uncertainty in income taxes in accordance with an interpretation issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB"), which clarifies the accounting for uncertainty in income taxes recognized in an enterprise's financial statements. This guidance requires the evaluation of tax positions taken or expected to be taken in the course of preparing the University's tax returns to determine whether the tax positions are "more-likely-than-not" of being sustained by the applicable tax authority. Tax positions not deemed to meet the more-likely-than-not threshold are required to be recorded as a tax benefit or expense in the current year. Additionally, this interpretation provides guidance on de-recognition, classification, interest and penalties, disclosure and transition. The University had no uncertain tax positions that were not considered more-likely-than-not of being sustained by applicable tax authorities as of both June 30, 2017 and 2016.
