Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

2017 was a banner year for Trout Unlimited (TU). Across the country, staff and volunteers tirelessly worked to achieve our mission to conserve, protect, and restore North America's coldwater fisheries and their watersheds. Just a few of our many achievements are highlighted below. PROTECT In 2017, TU protected 1,164 river miles and increased protection on 3,000,709 million acres. Bristol Bay in Alaska remained one of TU's largest protection priorities in 2017 and will remain a focus in 2018. The proposed Pebble Mine presents a catastrophic threat to the world-class salmon ecosystem in Bristol Bay and would forever mar the magnificent landscape. We are aggressively pursuing protections through multiple channels, including a federal permitting process and administrative and legislative action at the state level. The Cascade-Siskiyou National Monument in southern Oregon is a unique landscape rich in biodiversity where three mountain ranges merge. In January 2017, TU and partners succeeded in obtaining a 48,000 acre expansion of the monument. The expansion will help protect a native population of redband rainbow trout in the Jenny Creek watershed, which are threatened by climate change and invasive species. TU is currently defending the expanded monument from efforts by the Trump Administration to shrink it. Also in Oregon, TU played a big role in securing an Outstanding Resource Waters designation for the North Fork of the Smith River. Major restoration efforts and closure of a steelhead hatchery have resulted in a resurgence of wild steelhead. The Outstanding Resource Waters designation protects 98 river miles and 100,000 acres by prohibiting degradation of the river's exceptional water quality. In 2017, TU continued to secure protective designations in Pennsylvania for trout streams before pipeline construction and other forms of development occur. Over the past two years, Pennsylvania has designated 731 new wild trout streams sections totaling more than 2,100 miles. Classification as Cold Water Fisheries under the state's water quality regulations trigger more stringent environmental protections when Department of Environmental Protection reviews permits for development activities. RECONNECT TU volunteers work throughout the country to reconnect tributary streams to mainstem rivers, which allow wild and native fish to migrate into headwater streams to spawn. In total, TU reconnected 737 river miles in 2017. Montana's Clark Fork River Basin is one of the West's iconic trout waters. The Basin's trout production potential has been reduced through disconnection of critically important tributary spawning habitats and extensive mine pollution along the main stem Clark Fork River corridor. In 2017, TU continued restoration efforts to complement the ongoing Superfund clean-up in the main stem Clark Fork River corridor -- and rebuild what was once a robust fishery -- by restoring and reconnecting the tributary habitats that will recruit fish to the newly restored main stem Clark Fork. Specifically, TU staff completed fish passage and screening projects on three different Clark Fork River tributaries to reconnect an additional nine miles of spawning habitat for native Westslope Cutthroat and Bull Trout in 2017. In California and Oregon, TU helped secure a new Klamath Hydroelectric Settlement Agreement, which will remove four dams below Klamath Lake starting in 2020 and reconnect fish passage to more than 400 miles of prime spawning and rearing habitat for salmon and steelhead. In 2017, TU continued to prepare the watershed for salmon and steelhead that will return after the scheduled dam removal. TU staff also secured over $3 million to fund the largest irrigation piping and water conservation project undertaken in the basin, which will keep adequate stream flows in a major tributary, the Sprague River. On Oregon's North Coast, TU and several partners continued work on the Salmon SuperHwy Project, an ambitious undertaking to open more than 178 miles of steelhead and salmon habitat in six coastal rivers over the next decade. The project will boost local economy, create jobs, stimulate the outdoor recreation and fishing sectors, and benefit local farmers. TU won a competitive award from the Natural Resources Conservation Service's Regional Conservation Partnership Program. And in 2017, TU staff installed bridges in place of perched culverts at the mouths of five brook trout streams just above their confluence with the mainstem Beebe River. The work was done in partnership with The Conservation Fund, which purchased a 5,000 acre easement to protect the project area in perpetuity. For the first time in decades brook trout will be able to move freely between the Beebe River and the five tributaries. RESTORE Across the country, TU works to restore watersheds degraded by hard-rock mining, grazing and development. TU's nationwide restoration work benefited 361 river miles in 2017. In Washington, Upper Columbia River native steelhead migrate over eight dams as they return to small natal streams to spawn in the Okanogan River Basin. On Johnson Creek, one of the highest priority streams for steelhead recovery in the entire Okanogan Basin, TU staff, in partnership with the Colville Confederated Tribes and the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, recently eliminated two large fish passage barriers. Within two months, steelhead were seen moving up past the former barriers. TU was recently awarded an additional $500,000 to continue Johnson Creek restoration work in 2018. TU continues to be recognized for its nationwide restoration efforts and achievements. In 2016, the Driftless Area restoration project was selected for induction into the Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame for its contributions to angling in the Midwest. Before TU started the Driftless Area Restoration Effort, there were three to five miles of restoration occurring in the Driftless Area each year. In 2017, we hit our highest annual total yet with 20 miles of restored habitat. Parallel to TU's restoration work across the country is an effort to pass national "Good Samaritan" legislation that would allow groups like Trout Unlimited to restore waters degraded by abandoned mines.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

SUSTAIN Throughout the country, TU works to bring young people into conservation through Trout in the Classroom, Teen Summit, STREAM Girls, and Five Rivers (college chapters) programs. These students are the next generation of TU leaders and American conservationists, and in 2017, TU offered more than 1,600 youth education programs. TU's Veterans Services Partnership program helps wounded warriors discover the healing power of the water through fishing. TU and over 140 of its chapters provided 675 events and activities to serve veterans and their families in 2017. Veterans Services Partnership events include fishing outings, fly tying events and social gatherings for veterans of combat so they may discover the peace and tranquility of time spent on the water. TU volunteers are engaged in the organization's conservation mission and actively play a role in protecting, reconnecting, and restoring the nation's trout and salmon waters. In 2017, TU volunteers recorded a record 734,824 service hours and executed over 1,000 conservation projects in local communities.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRSTU's government affairs staff worked diligently in the halls of the federal government to push important legislation, oppose bad conservation policies, and support vital conservation funding from coast to coast, all in service of fulfilling TU's mission for conserving trout and salmon habitat and fisheries For example, TU's government affairs staff - Held the line on proposals to weaken the Antiquities Act in Congress and urged the Department of the Interior not to diminish existing National Monuments that are protecting trout and salmon habitat -Organized substantial opposition to proposals by EPA and the U S Army Corps of Engineers to reduce protections for headwater streams under the Clean Water Act Healthy headwater streams are vital for trout and salmon conservation and fisheries -Developed substantial support for "Good Samaritan" legislation a bill passed through the House of Representatives - to facilitate abandoned coal mine pollution clean up -Organized substantial support in Alaska for Bristol Bay trout and salmon fisheries which helped to convince EPA to keep high Clean Water Act hurdles on the table in our campaign to limit harmful hard-rock mining in Alaska's Bristol Bay region -Pressed for passage of the Public Lands Renewable Energy Act in support of achieving important conservation provisions in the bill that would provide mitigation funds from renewable energy lease royalties that would be used to protect, restore and reconnect important fish and game habitat on public federal public lands -Organized substantial opposition to unwarranted proposed budget cuts for federal natural resource management programs of vital interest to TU and its members Congress rejected the harmful cuts and maintained level funding for most programs, enabling TU's trout and salmon watershed projects to continue to be successful

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part II, Line 5	Annually a TU representative visits the property and speaks with the landowner to review the property and identify any new activities or damages since the last inspection that could affect the property. The representative discusses with the landowner any potential or planned activities concerning the land including, but not limited to, the transfer of the land, agricultural activities, timber harvesting, water development, road construction, and commercial activities.

Supplemental Information
Return Reference	Explanation
Part II, Line 9	Conservation easements are not reported in the revenue, expense or balance Sheet of TU

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part V, Line 4	CCF Endowment The fund was developed to support the scientific resource work of TU and was funded through the Russell Memorial Fund ($569,375) and other individual contributions. Up to 15% of the original contribution revenue was allocated to be spent on overhead and administrative costs associated with the Coldwater Conservation Fund program. The remaining portion of the overhead and administrative allocation was spent in fiscal year 2016. A portion of the current investment income from the Endowment's funds are to be spent annually, in accordance with TU's spending policy. Spending rates of 4.5% and 4.5% were set for fiscal years ended September 30, 2017 and 2016. E T Teller Endowment This fund was established in 1995 by the Teller family. Per request by the donor, up to 50% of the annual earnings are available for general operations of TU. The other 50% should be reinvested in the fund. Living Brightwater Endowment Per a Board resolution passed on June 28, 2016, it was resolved to release the permanent restriction on the fund in its entirety because the original purpose and restricted classification of the donor funds, which were received over a period 30 years ago, was varied or unspecified and several of the targeted programs are no longer implemented.

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part X, Line 2	TU is exempt from Federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Accordingly, no provision for income taxes has been made in the accompanying financial statements. TU is not a private foundation. For the years ended September 30, 2017 and 2016, TU documented its consideration of FASB ASC 740-10, Income Taxes, that provides guidance for reporting uncertainty in income taxes and has determined that no material uncertain tax positions qualify for either recognition or disclosure in the financial statements.

Part IV Supplemental Information. Provide the information required in Part I, line 2, Part III, column (b), and any other additional information.

Return Reference	Explanation
Part I, Line 2	The majority of the grants are given out to TU Chapters and Councils and are monitored by the Embrace-A-Stream Committee for compliance with their grant agreement. For those grants issued to outside organizations, those are typically part of a larger grant agreement that dictates the term of the arrangements with the appropriate TU employee monitoring compliance. The TU Women's Fly Fishing/Film Grant specifically funds women filmmakers, helping them to produce video projects about women taking part in the sport of fly-fishing for trout. Women are now an under-represented demographic in the sport (the majority of trout anglers, and TU members, are male), and as part of TU's diversity initiative, we are focused on expanding reach to the female demographic, and recruiting women members. We monitored the production, assisted in the distribution, and use our media properties and contacts to leverage viewership of the finished films.
