Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

The translationCore software provides checklists that enable church-based translators to confidently and reliably confirm and improve the accuracy of their own Bible translations by applying the principles of excellence in Bible translation and enabling the comparison of their translations against multiple sources and the original languages. This empowers the church to confirm that their trust of their Bible translation is well-placed. First major "non-private" milestone achieved in November 2017 with the release of version 0.8, which allowed alignment of the English text for the Book of Titus to the original Greek. This involved integration into the software of the UGNT (Creative Commons Greek New Testament) and the English ULB (Creative Commons Literal Bible) and the coding to allow alignment between the two for the book of Titus, including the checking of key terms. *Update of door43.org website to provide live web publishing of any translations uploaded to DCS (August 2017)
