Schedule A Section C Questions 17a & 17b

The IAFC relies totally on funds from the general public, community and those individuals and companies involved in the fire services.

Although it receives contributions from individuals, the majority of its support comes from organizations that sell supplies, equipment and apparatus to the fire services industry. Individual contributions are typically less than $500 per person; however, corporate contributions are much larger. Motorola is a perfect example-they contributed $40,000 in 2017 alone. They are very loyal and supportive of the volunteer fire community and take an active role by contributing these large dollars to continue the training and development of the men and women that volunteer their time to protect and serve the communities they live in through the volunteer fire departments. These scholarships allow young men and women to pursue the passion for the fire services and obtain the necessary training they would not be able to afford on their own.

Organizations like Motorola help to keep the supply of volunteers for fire fighting growing to meet the needs of their growing communities.
