Line 16. Other expenses. $9 bank fee.

Part III Purpose of the Organization: FAKS focused its activities in developing countries on a more narrow assistance to needy children specifically by providing prosthetic care for amputee children.

Part III line 28. A board member regularly volunteered with an NGO orthopedic surgical team. He discovered multiple needy, amputee children in Guatemala. The FAKS board saw the opportunity to take our mission of caring for needy children in a different direction. The board decided to maintain an interest in nutrition but to add the primary focus of finding resources in Guatemala that could provide prosthetic care for children. Throughout the year we had active contact with doctors and clinics whom we could use to provide services to children. By year end we had identified two children to whom we would commit to assist with on-going care. On-going prosthetic care involves multiple visits to the prosthetic clinic each year and, as the child grows, periodic replacement of all or tarts of the prostheses. Our support for this care can be required until the child becomes a self-supporting adult. Our activities involve constant contact and monitoring to ensure that the patients are being cared for appropriately.

Part V Line 35b FAKS had nothing to report on any other income lines.

Late Filing statement:

Reasons for Late Filing and Remedies,

This foundation was initially very small and managed by one primary individual, a nurse who volunteered with surgical teams overseas. There was a board of four additional members. Family tragedies, including the death of a spouse followed by that of a son in 2013 pulled her attention from the foundation management and volunteer activities. During this time of turmoil, IRS filing fell thru the cracks.

The Board has now been re-constituted to include a retired international banker who has experience in documentation and OFAC compliance issues. The board was also expanded to include a retired Public Health physician skilled in administration and in the medical issues related to the goals of the foundation. Upon discovering the failure to file, steps were immediately taken to correct the situation. Responsibilities - including management of IRS filing - have been assigned to specific individuals. Regular review of the filing status is now scheduled for each board meeting.
