SCHEDULE A, PART IV,SECTION E LINE 2a	The mission of The Conservancy for the Parthenon and Centennial Park (The Conservancy) supports Centennial Park and the Parthenon museum (which is located in Centennial Park), both of which are operated under the authority of the Nashville Government Metro Parks and Recreation Department. Parks and Recreation offers a variety of facilities and programs throughout Davidson County. Centennial Park is Nashville's "premier park and is one of the 108 parks that the Parks and Recreation Department supervises, controls, and operates. Through membership and donor support, The Conservancy supports programming and activities that the Metro budget cannot afford. In particular, The Conservancy supports the Musicians Corner program, which provides free music to the community in Centennial Park. This program has generated over 75,000 people in attendance this past year. Centennial Park is also undergoing a major renovation and improvement. The Centennial Park Master Plan presents an ambitious vision for the park's future that also preserves its singular history. The revitalization draws on Centennial Park's qualities of memory, community and celebration to achieve a unique urban park environment. Centennial Park will be a sustainable water-neutral and urban green space, where families and people of all abilities will find the opportunities for recreation, connection, play and respite. We are proud to work with Metro Parks and the City of Nashville to renovate our city's central park for residents and visitors alike both now and for future generations. The Conservancy is partnering with the City by undertaking a capital campaign in order for the city of Nashville to complete this project. Further, The Conservancy supports the Parthenon museum by funding typical museum activities: educational programs, exhibits, lectures, and events related to the heritage of Nashville's Parthenon and the original Greek Parthenon. All these activities of The Conservancy further our mission to preserve, enhance and share the Parthenon and Centennial Park so that all future generations may benefit from these enriching cultural and education landmarks.
