Network of Ethnic Physician Organizations (NEPO) NEPO brings together more than 50 ethnic physician organizations from across California to create an empowered, unified voice of ethnic physicians and their organizations to promote diversity, access, and quality, in healthcare NEPO is designed to identify strategies for building the capacity of Ethnic Physician Organizations, address health disparities and the social determinants of health, improve workforce diversity, engage in leadership development and to encourage physicians and other providers to be community advocates NEPO hosts an annual Summit which brings together nationally recognized policy leaders, elected officials and physician leaders This successful Summit draws over 150 physicians, other providers, and policy experts to learn best practices, share information, and network

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Pneumococcal Vaccine Improvement The overall goal was to address local obstacles that limit eligible adult patients from receiving pneumococcal vaccination among communities of color and the providers that serve them, thus increasing the number of Los Angeles County residents who are vaccinated. The long-term goal was to improve the health and well-being of communities of color and reduce healthcare costs. The CMA Foundation addressed these obstacles by working with physician practices serving communities of color and low-income populations in Los Angeles County to participate in a 9-month project to increase adult pneumococcal immunizations by at least 12% in their practices. The CMA Foundation tracked adult pneumococcal vaccination rate data using the practice's electronic health record (EHR) to compare baseline data to final data at the end of the project. The CMA Foundation hosted in-person training sessions, conducted coaching sessions and performed site visits to educate participants about new practice protocols and tools to help practices increase pneumococcal vaccination rates.

Diversity in Clinic Trials Campaign Clinical trials provide an opportunity for patients with rare diseases, such as sickle cell anemia, to receive the very latest in health care. Unfortunately, ethnically diverse patients often miss out on the opportunity to participate in clinical trials because they lack access to referrals or feel uncertain about what participation entails. A lack of ethnic diversity prevents the creation of medication that best targets patients of different ethnicities. Patients from different ethnic backgrounds often respond differently to the same treatments and medications. To improve this disparity, PHC and NEPO have developed a suite of materials to encourage conversation between patients and physicians about the importance of diversity in clinical trials. This suite consists of two office posters and two videos that include basic information about clinical trials along with a message about the life-saving potential of clinical trial interventions.
