Part III Statement of Program Service AccomplishmentsPart III, LINE 28

1. $ 36,875 RISING TIDE NORTH AMERICA (www.risingtidenorthamerica.org)

Rising Tide North America (RTNA) is a continental, all-volunteer, grassroots network of groups and individuals who organize locally, promote community-based solutions to the climate crisis and take direct action to confront the root causes of climate change. RTNA organizes through a decentralized network of local chapters that support one another with shared resources, ideas, fundraising, training and organizing. RTNA has participated in campaigns on fracking, tar sands pipelines, Arctic drilling and coal mining. Their work during 2017 included technical support for grassroots campaigns that resisted pipelines in Louisiana, Minnesota, Western Canada and Appalachia. Rising Tide continued to support indigenous activists with trainings and financial support. Rising Tide also sponsored a community organizing training in Pittsburgh.

Funds raised through grants to Rising Tide were used to maintain the organization's brand through communications and web identity and provide local groups with microgrants for travel, training and food. RTNA is geographically dispersed through North America and funds were also used to transport members to twice a year planning meetings. Of the $36,875 Rising Tide received from Media Island, the breakdown is as follows: $20,000 Travel; $10,000 Local support training grants; $2000 Supplies; $2000 Food; $2000 Program; $875 Miscellaneous.

2. $13,300 INDIGENOUS CULTURAL CONCEPTS (www.facebook.com/louise.benally.94)

This water Education project is in partnership with the Native Organizers Alliance, Community Organizing Patient Empowerment, and Indigenous Cultural Concepts. The work this year has three parts to it. 1) Public outreach and education; 2) Conducting surveys person to person, one for regular folks & other is for traditional knowledge holders (medicine people); 3) Implementing resources for communities like water testing training and identifying most urgent needs like getting water filtering systems.

The Greater Navajo Nation has five agencies that lay out into three states. We went to the communities in 23 chapter houses. The Chinle and Fort Defiance agencies are only two of the agency areas and to reach these found us driving hundreds of miles and interviewing a lot of folks, including Traditional Knowledge Holders, respected Elders and Medicine people. In each community we entered with outreach and education, followed by one on one interviews on water uses for the household.

To better share the knowledge with the younger generations and to help develop ways to address water solutions for better drinking water, at the same time we are promoting "Water First" which is water education for the little ones and their families is to drink water instead of soda and juices that have too much sugar, as a health education for prevention of diabetes, heart disease, and cancer. As we continue to work on these areas of better drinking water for communities and health education, the surveys help us identify where support is most needed. This will be providing water filters for tap water as some families still have to haul water from windmills or deep wells that are often not safe for drinking. Our communities are impacted by uranium and coal mining, and now fracking oil and gas development has begun to go full scale. All of these activities involve water. Currently we are opposing our river water rights being taken away for industrial development from States and Federal Government. To us "water is Life" and we must uphold our rights to defend our water. Budget has been spent on these areas: Outreach/Education - $5,000; Travel/gas/food - $5,000; Material supplies/fees - $3,300.

Part III, LINE 30

3. $10,431 BLACK MESA INDIGENOUS SUPPORT (www.supportblackmesa.org)

Black Mesa Indigenous Support (BMIS) is a request-based solidarity organization consisting of all volunteers that provides direct on-land support to Low Income Dineh (Navajo) communities of Black Mesa, AZ who live generally within the borders of the Hopi Partitioned Lands. Work involves taking assistance to elders and families of Navajo and Hopi people impacted by the forced relocation under Public Law 93-531. They serve a community of approximately 1,000. Activities are year round, with one large fall gathering and wood run each year, along with a smaller gathering in the spring.

2017 also saw funds spent on families buying their sheep back from the Hopi Government due to illegal livestock impoundments and buying hay, a Spring Gathering, and spending some funds on travel costs for youth and elders to conferences. Funds also supported the on-land Black Mesa Resistance Camp, as well as other on-land community meetings. The wood run in 2017 provided 60 families with one cord of wood each. Here is how the funds were utilized: Livestock impoundments $500; Livestock Support (hay) $1000; Funerals and illnesses $600; On the land Gatherings $2000; Wood $800; Home repairs $800; Native youth projects; $1000; Gas reimbursements $231; On land meetings $2000; Travel cost to conferences/meetings $1500.

During our short time in existence, we were able to secure a grant that enabled us to set the foundations for current and future projects.

One of those projects was the co-production of a festival in Maryland called the "Oya Festival." This is a cultural festival that was named after an African deity of the Yoruba people of Nigeria and throughout the diaspora. Part of the festival included workshops that were hosted by us on self-care held by a licensed psychologist, as well as multiple community forums where black women discussed their experiences raising black children in the Maryland school system. We had yoga instructors, massage professionals, and other therapists available for workshops and one on one sessions with women. The culminating event was a celebration of "Oya," the Yoruba deity of women's empowerment, as well as the celebration of women and mothers in that neighborhood. Our organization provided food and a Cultural performance for the community emphasizing the importance of supporting women and children. With our grant funding, we were able to purchase $6,000 of drums for drum lessons, funds were used to bring three visiting artist/teachers, we were able to give a $2,000 donation to the facility which is a community cultural center, and also funds went to support other organizers of the event.

5. $8,964 WOMENS MARCH WASHINGTON STATE

Womens March Washington State (WMW) The Women's March 2017 was a worldwide protest on January 21, 2017, to advocate legislation and policies regarding human rights and other issues, including women's rights. It was the largest single-day protest in U.S.

history. Worldwide participation has been estimated at five million. At least 408 marches were held in the U.S. and 168 in 81 other countries. The Women's March crowds in Washington, D.C., Chicago, Los Angeles, New York City, and Seattle, had an estimated combined total of two million people marching. There were 50 state organizations in the US, and Media Island International was asked to fiscally sponsor the WA State branch of the national movement.

These 2017 funds were from donations which came in after the march, and used to settle debts for expenses and finish wrapping up the project. The group found another fiscal sponsor for future endeavors.

Aboriginal Lens is an independent film production company started in 2006 by Navajo filmmaker Sarah Del Seronde. We aim to create quality content for public television broadcast. Aboriginal Lens is dedicated to strengthening Native voices. We also help facilitate filmmaking workshops on American Indian reservations. The importance of our cultural background and the Navajo language cannot be understated and at the core of our projects – community based collaboration with Navajo scholars, elders, and Navajo filmmakers allow Navajo voices to be inserted into the historical and political record of American life.

In 2017, MII helped to complete Metal Road, a documentary film on the Navajo railroaders. Funds supported the media personnel, cultural historians and consultants, archival costs, and travel. This summarizes our expenditures: Film Team $2,400; Scholars / Consultants $1,400;

Travel expenses $1,850; Archivals $500; Administrative expenses $650

7. $4,650 MUSIC MENTORS ACADEMIES (www.todddennymsw.com)

Music Mentors Academies (MMA) are innovative music residency programs that promote culture, health and help prevent addiction with tribal youth. We teach students how to write, record and perform their original musical messages with a year-long commitment as peer educators in community wide activities. Since 2008, over 500 youth from 17 Pacific Northwest Indian Nations have graduated from music mentor trainings. Working with youth, MMA created addiction prevention music DVD to accompany the previously created tribal youth created curriculum (CD and training manual). This DVD supports educators working in prevention education as a step by step guide to running an innovative youth program. Counselors will be able to use this unique resource as an intervention based program for youth and adult's affected by addictions. The DVD explore young people's experiences, prevention ideas and coping skills in relationship to addictions and health promotion. Also for use in youth problem gambling, substance abuse and suicide prevention. The curriculum supports youth health promotion and prevention, through songs and music messages created by tribal and diverse youth for their peers, schools and communities and was and is used by counselors and prevention educators in the Chehalis and Nisqually tribal communities

$1,650 for curriculum development, and expenses for program director; $3,000 for additional curriculum, multimedia development and professional services, DVD duplication, graphic arts and packaging, DVD editing and mastering.

KOWA 106.5 FM Olympia Radio is a fully licensed low power FM radio station serving Olympia, WA. Founded by Media Island International, KOWA is a non-profit radio station whose mission is to give voice to individuals, organizations and movements working for gender, racial, and social justice, economic democracy, ecological sustainability, and environmental justice. Our goal is to help build the foundation which could enable actual peace. KOWA is a Pacifica Network affiliate and airs many amazing programs from across the country and around the world, including the daily & weekly news programs Democracy Now!, Hard Knock Radio, Rising Up With Sonali, Sojourner Truth, the Ralph Nader Radio Hour, Alternative Radio, Native America Calling, Black Agenda Radio, and many more. Our intentional programming which includes the Feminist Hour, Progressive Masculinity, our LGBTQ+ segments and our Progressive Comedy and Spoken Word shows all help move us forward in the ongoing work to help get these underrepresented voices out into the community. 2017 funds were spent on online streaming, hosting and programming costs, and some additional equipment upgrades and maintenance.

9. $2,472 TIKUN OLAM (www.richardsilverstein.com)

Tikun Olam was founded in 2003 as one of the first progressive blogs addressing the Israeli-Arab conflict. It has nearly 2,000 regular subscribers and maintains a social media presence via Twitter (nearly 10,000 Followers) and Facebook (5,000 Friends). It reports about Israeli national security issues, including Israel's relations with the Arab world and the U.S. It often breaks important stories which are under Israeli judicial gag order or Israeli military censorship. This means that no Israeli media outlet may report such stories, thus making Tikun Olam a critical news source for Israelis seeking to know what their intelligence and military apparatus do in their names. This enables activists, governments and the media to hold Israel to account in instances where it would prefer to conceal its involvement. Tikun Olam's founder, Richard Silverstein has been a regular contributor to Middle East Eye, a UK publication specializing in reports on Middle East affairs and many other well respected outlets. He has done radio interviews for programs at WBEZ (Chicago), KPFA (Berkeley) and Boston. He published a chapter in a 2016 essay collection, Israel and Palestine: Alternate Perspectives on Statehood (Rowman & Littlefield). Tikun Olam provided major coverage of a 2017 series of violent assaults led by members of JDL Canada against a Palestinian-American college instructor and a Jewish-American activist at the national AIPAC conference. It also broke military censorship which prohibited reporting in the Israeli media on massive Israeli arms sales to the Myanmar junta in the midst of its ethnic cleansing campaign against Rohingya Muslims. Due in part to the controversy generated by such coverage, the government suspended its arms trafficking with Myanmar. $2,472 was spent as follows: Computer & recording equipment - $1,250; Internet access & International Skype fees - $850; Online Subscriptions - $372

10. $2,100 The Women of Color in Leadership Movement

(www.facebook.com/The-Women-of-Color-in-Leadership-Movement-393493711027376/)

The Women of Color in Leadership Movement (WCLM) has been active since 2015, and incorporated as a Washington State non-profit organization in 2017. Within that short time we were able to accomplish many of our goals for the year that helped us build our foundational roots. Funds were spent to support monthly group meetings. We have also been able to compensate our members in their work such as creating a mural dedicated to women of color in leadership that now is exhibited, at the Media Island International site. We have also been able to offer support to students of the Evergreen State College who are still being affected by the current racial tensions on campus and in the community of Olympia. We have partnered with even more community partners, such as The City of Olympia, The Evergreen State College (CCBLA Community Based Learning and Action), St Martins College, to name a few. We have been and are working on more guest speakers to come share their knowledge with the greater community, and give us all tools to move forward in our aspirations. These include Dr. Joy Degruy, author of Post Traumatic Slave Syndrome, and Sweetwater Nannauck, a native spiritual activist who works with Idle No More, as well as Rosa Clemente, activist and Artist, whom will speak on topics such as using art forms such as Hip Hop in social justice, and centering women of color in social justice movements. They will all address many of the issues around race, class, and gender, including the effects of colonization on Black and Brown peoples, in particular, women of color. Also, we are continuing our plans to send a group of the women to conferences and workshops statewide, helping foster their resiliency tools and making international connections to help build their global network.

11. $450 DEMOCRACY NOW! (www.democracynow.org)

Democracy Now! is a national, daily, independent, award-winning international news program hosted by journalists Amy Goodman and Juan Gonzalez. MI's involvement with the Democracy Now! project is focused on keeping the program on TCTV, Olympia's Public Access TV channel in Washington's State Capitol. We fund-raise annually from a few key supporters to cover the needed satellite and subscription costs of the program, having raised more than $2800 over 7 years to keep this resource working to inform the local community

Media Island International maintains and is working to improve a Pro-Active Library and resource center located in downtown Olympia, Washington's state capitol. Books, magazines, journals, video and audio tapes, electronic files as well as hard copy files of documents and posters, flyers and other items are maintained for public use on premises. The library specializes in alternative magazines and resource books on subjects relating to the organization's mission, including Indigenous cultural survival, human and civil rights, international law, women's issues, racial inequality, civil rights of all kinds, civic participation in political and social issues, democracy of the media, as well as economic justice and ecological integrity. 2017 funds were spent on acquisitions.
